

New home builders breaking bylaws, mayor says

people (breaking the bylaws).
 "We have a great thing going here. And we can all win here. But we can't have existing residents being affected (by construction)," he said.

He promised to deal with the issue during last fall's election campaign.

Residents have complained to the mayor's office and bylaw enforcement.

Construction traffic has designated roads it is to use. Construction on Sundays is illegal, but some builders have ignored the law.

The mayor promised increased enforcement.

He found it ironic that a Sun-Tribune article Saturday called Whitchurch-Stouffville the 10th best municipality in Ontario for investing in real estate.

"It's what this community provides that makes it such a great place to sell homes, not what (developers) are doing," he said. "I don't want to lose that."

The approval of more homes in the west end has been halted until Millard Street and Hoover Park Drive are completed to Hwy. 48.

Hoover Park, which is awaiting provincial approval, could open next month, Mr. Emmer-son said.
