At Southlake, behind every single interaction, notation, observation and course of action with patients, their families and their health-care providers is a team of qualified, compassionate and utterly incredible nurses.

Something very special has been achieved at Southlake - a mutual admiration so-to-speak. Through our changing demographics, and our rapid growth as a Regional Health Centre, our nurses have enabled us to consistently offer quality care to our patients every step of the way.

Our nurses embrace new opportunities and push the envelope. Their commitment to excellence is what makes us excellent.

In a recent survey, our nurses rated Southlake significantly higher than staff at other Ontario hospitals - in some cases close to 20 per cent higher - especially in terms of the sense of teamwork and in terms of quality of care as an important goal.

Every day, our nurses make Southlake a special kind of hospital.

Their actions and acute sense of commitment to their patients and to Southlake speak volumes about their character. To our Southlake nurses, thank you for being shockingly excellent.
