Aviation art award

A painting of an ejection seat floating lazily in space earned Stouffville artist John Walmsley first place in an art show in Ottawa.

The exhibition commemorated the National Aviation Museum's 100th anniversary.

Titled 'Hot Seat on Cool Blue', it is part of a juried exhibition of 42 works to celebrate the centennial of the Aerial Experiment Association and the beginning of powered flight in Canada.

This work and another painting by Mr. Walmsley will be on display in the museum for the next six months. Although his works have been accepted in the juried show over the past 13 years, it is the first time Mr. Walmsley has won an award there.

His paintings are also in books recognizing the contributions of Canadians in the Second World War.

Along with flying machines, Mr. Walmsley can often be found painting his favourite landscapes on location or doing portraits.

He is a member of the Canadian Aviation Artists Association.

Mr. Walmsley will be participating in his seventh Stouffville Studio Tour Oct. 13 and 14.
