CANCER CENTRE TO SERVE YORK REGION

It's official. Construction is under way on Southlake Regional Health Centre's $110-million cancer care centre in Newmarket. To kick off the beginning of what will be a four-storey, full-service facility to serve York Region are hospital president and CEO Dan Carriere (from left), Health Minister George Smitherman, vice-president at Cancer Care Ontario Michael Sherar, cancer survivor Kathy Proudfoot and Southlake foundation Count on Me campaign chairperson Peter van Schaik. Their handprints and signatures will become part of a dedication sign at the site for two years. The foundation hopes to raise $60 million toward the cost of the centre with the province kicking in nearly $54 million.
