

Fathers, sons rock Markham Fair starting tonight

It will be a fathers and sons affair on the rock band stage at Markham Fair this week.

Kabin Fever, a group of 15-year-olds from Stouffville, Aurora and Port Perry schools, plays indie night with three other bands today at 7 p.m.

The lineup includes Drew Chester (vocals, bass and keyboards), Kyle Bouwmeister (guitar and vocals), Chris Tan (drums) and Dilan Bartlett (lead guitar). The band's name came from rehearsing in the cabin at the Chester family's Chalet Studios near Clarendon. They will perform originals and covers.

THE GUILD PLAYS SATURDAY

On Saturday night, it's two of their fathers' turn. The Guild includes dads Jon Bouwmeister and David Chester plus Sean Roberts and Steve Steele. The band has been together for more than a year and performs a couple of times a month at venues across the GTA, including Crossroads in Stouffville.

The Guild is recording a demo at Chalet Studios this week and plans to release a CD of original tunes early next year.
