Announce Civil Defence Instructors' Course

The first Civil Defence warden instructors course in Ontario is announced by Col. Arthur Welsh, Provincial Civil Defense Co-ordinator.

The school, which will be operated by the Ontario Government's civil defense office, opens in Toronto on June 12 and will run for three weeks.

Candidates for training as instructors of wardens, nominated by the Civil Defense Co-ordinator for Toronto and York, will attend the school two nights a week and will receive an extensive course in all aspects of civil defense emergency action.

Col. Welsh said the school is the beginning of a Province-wide training program which will give all important municipalities in Ontario the necessary trained wardens who are the basis of effective civil defense organizations.

"The Toronto school will be an experiment and when the first course is over we will have a pretty good idea of what is necessary to train our people for possible enemy air attack," Col. Welsh said.

Trained instructors from the Ontario Civil Defense Office staff, the Fire Marshal's Office, Toronto Police Department, and Ontario Government Departments, will give lectures and demonstrations in civil defense organization in the community, fire fighting, emergency action to meet atomic, biological and chemical warfare, traffic control and wardens' duties.

"We have now a large number of highly trained instructors in Ontario," Col. Welsh said, "and men who will give lectures have been trained in the most up-to-date schools in Canada and the United States."

The first school will be conducted in the Toronto Police Department Training School, 149 College St. The first group of students will be civilians representing the 12 police divisions in Toronto, selected by the Chief Constable's headquarters staff.

Those who complete the Ontario course are then qualified to carry on training in their local areas.

All necessary equipment and instruction staff for the school will be provided by the Ontario Government with the Federal Government providing necessary equipment for fire and gas training.

"This school will mark the real beginning of our civil defense training in Ontario, now that most of the important municipalities have completed their committee organization," Col. Welsh said.

Through the efforts of Air Vice Marshal Lawrence, Director of Civil Defense for Toronto and York, and Toronto Chief Constable John Chisholm, this school will pioneer the way to all-out preparation by our people which will strengthen our national defense and reduce civil casualties in the event of enemy attack," Col. Welsh said.

BETHESDA

We extend the sympathy of the community to the families on our line who have been bereaved; also to all who have been ill, both in hospital and at home. We wish them a speedy recovery.

Miss Jean Empringham is at home spending her holidays from the Toronto East General Hospital where she is in training.

Last Wednesday ten members of Bethesda Institute attended the District Annual of East York Women's Institute in Washington United Church, Scarborough. Bethesda Branch had a quilt in the competition and received first prize.

On Monday afternoon several of the ladies met at the home of Mrs. C. Burkholder to spend the afternoon with Mrs. L. Buckland and present her with a gift of a lovely blanket and a serving tray and two sets of towels. A very dainty lunch was served. Mr. and Mrs. Buckland and family are leaving the community to make their home in Stouffville. We wish them happiness in their new home.

The family of Mr. Seth Wideman held a reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gibson. The sons and daughters and their families made a total of thirty. A very enjoyable time was spent together. Congratulations to Mrs. Garnet Francy of Buttonville. Women's Institute, who was elected president of East York District, succeeding Mrs. C. H. Hicks, who has served three years as president.
