Bear and Cub Attack Heifer Near Orillia

Rancher Harvey Oxby of Sadova, about 20 miles north east of Orillia, had a midnight meeting with a 600-pound bear and her cub Friday night, but all three parties escaped uninjured. The only casualty was a two-year-old heifer. Neighbors told Oxby they had heard sounds indicating a cow was in trouble near one corner of his ranch. Armed with a flashlight and axe, Oxby tracked down the sounds and came face to face with a bear cub and the prostrate cow. He frightened the cub away by shouting, then ran back to the house to get his rifle. Returning to the scene, he was confronted by both cub and mother standing over the cow. Oxby opened up with the rifle and fired a dozen shots—all of which missed, but frightened the animals away. The cow's neck cord had been snapped by the bears and it had to be shot. It was found to belong to Bob Morton, a neighbor of Oxby's, and had strayed through a fence to the spot where the bears attacked it.

25 Cents Wins Two Cars for London Girl

When Beverley Burrows, right, of London, Ont., bought a ticket on a lottery in Aylmer, Quebec, she gave her father the ticket to repay a loan of 25 cents. And when the lottery was drawn, Beverley received a car for selling the winning ticket to her father—who also received a new car. So now Mrs. Burrows, Sr., shown with Beverley, has her choice of cars and chauffeurs whenever she goes shopping.

Visitors at the residence of Dr. S. S. Ball during the week were Lieut. and Mrs. Cartwright of Nova Scotia. The naval officer is at the present time taking a staff course at Arbor Heights. He expects to take up permanent residence at Cashel in the near future. Another distant visitor at the home of Dr. Ball, is Mrs. Gertrude Smith of Victoria, B.C.

It is true that, "a rolling stone gathers no moss," but what good is moss to a stone?
