

Progress towards town status

Late W.B. Sanders Stouffville's only Warden

STOUFFVILLE - From a village to a town, ninety-three years in the making. That is Stouffville. While the period has indicated much progress, there have also been problems - problems that have been faced and solved by dedicated members of council.

It is difficult to pinpoint any one era of particular importance. But certainly the mid-fifties and sixties saw major changes here - changes for the better. What lies ahead? More changes - more improvements? Only time will tell.

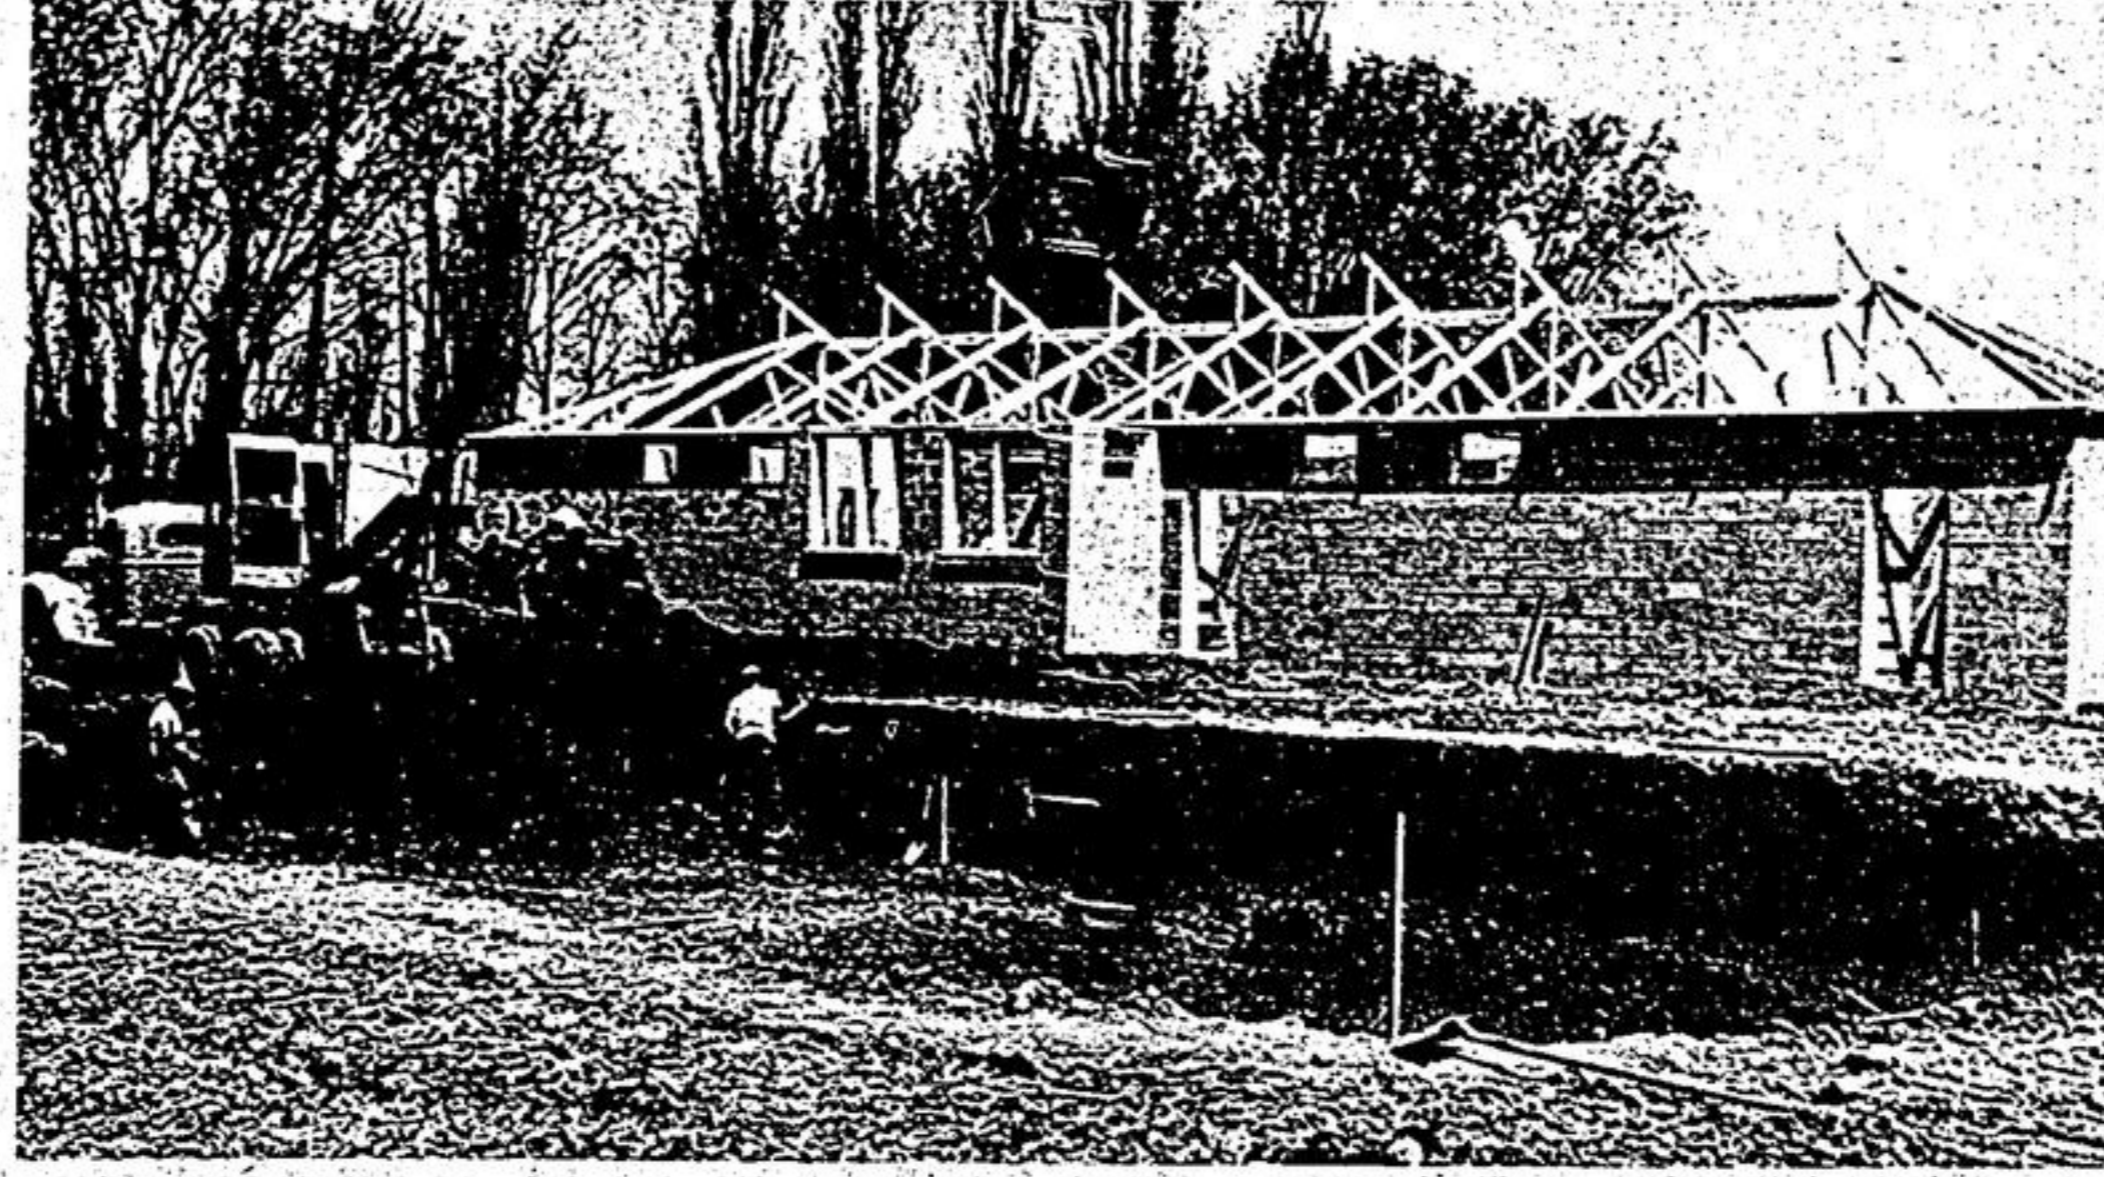

From a village to a town, progress in Stouffville has passed many an important milestone in the past 93 years, including the signing of the $668,000 sewerage system agreement in 1956. The reeve (left) is Elmer Daniels. The clerk is Garfield Brown.

This is a scene at the intersection of Main and Market Streets in the summer of 1957. Due to major sewer projects downtown, traffic was disrupted for several months. In some areas, progress was slowed by quicksand. With the completion of underground services, the new highway was constructed.

The Stouffville cemetery has always been well cared for, with the work, in later years, assumed by village employees, like Elgin Wagg, shown here.

No recreational project has provided so much summer enjoyment as the Stouffville swimming pool, donated through the Lions Club by Arthur Latham. It was opened in 1957.

Neighbor - a kin

Through the system of regional government, Whitechurch lost part of its township but joined partners with a town. What has Stouffville gained? Next week, let's look and see.
