Coffee House Youth fellowship

STOUFFVILLE - First a church, then a pool hall and now a coffee house.

This is the metamorphosis of the former Anglican chapel, Main Street East.

A team of young people, known as A.I.M., 'Ambassadors in Mission', have acquired the premises for the week of July 17 through 23, evenings only.

The purpose of the program is to become better acquainted with the young people of Stouffville and serve their needs.

The youth of the community is invited to drop in for a friendly visit, a time of fellowship and an exchange of ideas.

Opening soon

Mr. and Mrs. David Ku will open their new Pine Tree take-out and delivery service, July 19 at 4 p.m. The location is 26 Main Street East. The original Pine Tree site was destroyed by fire, last November.

Sane, perceptive news...with Jack Dennett

How to keep informed on what's happening throughout our hurley-burley world without having your nerves set on edge with each report?

Listen to CFRB's Jack Dennett at 8 in the morning and 6:30 at night, weekdays.

Jack Dennett's ten-minute newscasts crystallize the somewhat confusing happenings on the international, national and local fronts.

His intelligent, analytical and calm view of the day's events, commands the largest radio audience of any newscaster in Canada.

Small wonder! Jack Dennett's deep, personal respect for the intelligence of CFRB listeners is readily apparent in every newscast.
