Calls to cops lead to impaired driving charges

York Region motorists appear, for the most part, to have behaved themselves during the St. Patrick's Day weekend.

As green beer flowed at local watering holes, York Regional Police stepped up RIDE spot checks throughout the region, stopping 3,371 vehicles.

Of those drivers stopped, 41 were given roadside breath tests, five received 12-hour suspensions and two were charged with driving with a blood-alcohol level exceeding 80 mg.

Meanwhile, 13 other drivers were arrested and charged with impaired driving by regular patrol officers.

The police service encourages you to call 911 if you spot a suspected impaired driving on the roads.

Over the weekend, 28 such calls were made to police, resulting in seven of the arrests.
