This is one performance that's definitely going to the dogs.

The York Durham Academy for Performing Arts presents 101 Dalmatians March 27 to 30 featuring a cast of 36, most portraying canine characters.

In fact, there are only five human roles in the musical presented by the youth theatre company's junior cast. Lara Mackie plays Anita, Cody Weeden is Roger, the quintessentially evil role of Cruella De Vil is portrayed by Caelyn Hill, while Matthew Hague plays Jasper and Reid McLaughlin is Horace.

They have to match wits with all kinds of dogs, which along with the Dalmatians, include boxers, poodles, Scotties, Chihuahuas and one tough cat named Sgt. Tibbs.

Five narrators tell the story. The show is the directing debut of Christie McMullen.

She was a member of YDAPA when it began.

101 Dalmatians is being presented at the Altona Cultural Centre, the former home of the Stouffville Christian School, at 565 Pickering Uxbridge Line, just east of Stouffville.

The shows are next Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 7 p.m. On Sunday, there's a matinee at 2 p.m.

Tickets are: adults $15, students/seniors $12 and children $9.
