New Year's bash returns to park for 15th year

It's all about family fun when it comes to New Year's Eve in Stouffville.

Once again, Mayor Wayne Emmerson will host the annual alcohol-free event at Memorial Park, which gets under way at 6:30 p.m. and ends with a fireworks display starting at 8:45 p.m.

There will be a bonfire as well as free hotdogs, hot chocolate and, weather permitting, ice skating and sleigh rides available for everyone to enjoy courtesy of the Stouffville Lions, Whitchurch-Stouffville volunteer firefighters and local businesses.

"I wanted to keep the families together and provide some entertainment for the kids before midnight," Mr. Emmerson said of the 15th annual event.
