York police hiring new officers

While most of the region may be in hiring freeze mode due to the recession, York Regional Police are in full recruitment mode.

If you are interested in becoming a constable, an information seminar is being held March 18 in Vaughan.

With the region being one of the fastest growing communities in Canada, York Regional Police needs to keep pace with the demands of keeping your neighbourhoods safe.

At the seminar, you will learn what it takes to be a police officer, the process of joining and the benefits.

To become a police officer you must be a Canadian citizen or have permanent resident status, at least 18 years of age, physically and mentally able to do the job, of good moral character and habits and have earned at least your high school diploma.

Becoming a police constable can lead to more specialized career areas such as forensic identification, emergency response and investigative services.

If you are interested in attending, send your full name, phone number, home city and e-mail address to recruiting@yrp.ca

The March 18 meeting takes place from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in the City of Vaughan's council chambers at 2141 Major Mackenzie Dr.
