

Sisters hosting benefit fair

The inaugural Whistle Stop Christmas Fair organized by Stouffville sisters Laura and Grace Volpe will take place at the Markham Village Train Station tomorrow.

It's a benefit for The Arthritis Society.

One-of-a-kind art and fine crafts will be featured in the historic building, which dates from around 1871. Artists and artisans from Stouffville, Markham, Aurora and Newmarket will present their latest creations in pottery, woodturning, glass art and jewelry, Christmas cards and ornaments, jams and chutneys, original art prints and more.

A barbecue and baking, which includes gluten-free pizza and sweet treats, are on the menu during the fair, which runs from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Live jazz will be provided by Stouffville musicians Brandon Wild and Graziano Volpe.

Coffee donated by Starbucks in Unionville will be available at the fair with all coffee proceeds going to The Arthritis Society.

The station is at 214 Main St. N., Markham, south of 16th Avenue.

Lifenews launches on yorkregion.com

You can now share your own news and read about the milestones in the lives of the people in your community and across Ontario on Lifenews.ca

On the newly launched obituaries and celebration announcements website, which can be accessed on yorkregion.com, you can search by name, date or category to locate announcements and also write messages of condolences and congratulation in guest books.

You can use your Facebook login to access personal lifestyle content to share across your social networks.

On Lifenews.ca, you'll find obituaries and announcements, including births, birthdays, engagements, marriages and graduations, from Metroland Media Group newspapers in Ontario, as well as online-only announcements.

"With the launch of Lifenews.ca, we're making it even easier for our readers to stay connected with each other and share life's milestones," said York Region Media Group publisher Ian Proudfoot.
