

HAITI: Jam at The Earl on Saturday

Concert hits home with singer

Area musicians will perform in aid of Haitian relief this Saturday at The Earl of Whitchurch.

Concert and Jam for Haiti will feature Carys Montgomery and Justin Kerswill, Travis Geldart, Nick Succi and Frank Zochodne as well as the Slice Like a Hammer Trio.

All money raised will go to International Child Care via Ms Montgomery's father, Peter Montgomery, who is the organization's national director. The Christian organization has been in Haiti since 1967 working on child poverty. Mr. Montgomery leaves for Port-au-Prince Sunday.

"As the name suggests, the stage will also be open at various points throughout the night for jammers who'd like to showcase their talent either solo or with a band," said organizer Justin Kerswill.

Mr. Montgomery will go to Haiti to assess where his organization can provide the most assistance, including rebuilding and expanding Grace Children's Hospital, which is recognized as Haiti's leading medical facility dedicated to treating children with tuberculosis.

The concert starts at 7 p.m. Admission is a $10, or more, donation. The Earl of Whitchurch is at 6204 Main St.
