G8 PREVIEW

Whitchurch-Stouffville received a preview of the G8 Summit when Dr. Jean Chamberlain-Froese spoke about maternal mortality and economic sustainability in the developing world at Christian Blind Mission last week. Maternal and child health in developing countries will be a key focus at the summit in Huntsville tomorrow and Saturday. Dr. Froese, who has spent the past 10 years in the developing world working to alleviate the high rates of mothers and their children dying, will be the keynote speaker at the G8 Youth Forum in Muskoka. She is executive director of Save The Mothers in Uganda, an organization she founded in 2005. CBC Radio's Pep Philpott, a Stouffville resident, emceed the CBM event.
