

TO DO: Children's movies to docs

Filmmaker hosts own festival

Local filmmaker Paul Plett will be screening a number of his films this Saturday at the Parkview Village auditorium.

There will be children's movies, a documentary about Canadian mining in Latin America, an experimental film about a man in the woods along with several comedies.

"I think people will find at least one movie that they will really enjoy," Mr. Plett said. "Several films have been officially selected by festivals across North America, so it should be exciting to showcase these films at home."

The event runs from 7 to 10 p.m. with live acoustic music taking place from 7 to 8 p.m., followed by the films and then a Q & A with Mr. Plett. Coffee and pastries will be available throughout the night.

Tickets are $10. Parkview Village is at 12184 Ninth Line.

Moms saved over tea

More than half a million women die annually from pregnancy-related causes. Ninety-nine per cent of these deaths occur in developing countries.

To reduce that number, Save the Mothers is holding its annual Christmas fundraising auction and tea Nov. 6 at Gormley's Station Creek Golf Club, 12657 Woodbine Ave.

The event, complete with music and refreshments, takes place from 1 to 4 p.m. Tickets are $50 each for four for $180. For each ticket sold, a $30 tax receipt will be issued. Dr. Jean Chamberlain Froese, the organization's founder and director, will be the guest speaker.

Save the Mothers is an international organization that trains professionals from developing countries on how to improve a mother's health.
