Coyotes like this one were spotted in southern Stouffville during the last week. One followed a woman along a suburban street.

Coyotes attracted to garbage, bird feeders to be treated with both caution and respect," said Const. Blair McQuillan of York Region Police.

Coyotes are drawn to places that offer easy pickings, therefore, there are a few precautions people should take.

Store garbage in a sealed container and in a secure area, like a garage. Also remember that bird feeders attract birds, squirrels and rodents, which, in turn, may attract coyotes.

Never leave children, small dogs or cats unattended.

When out walking, avoid doing so when coyotes are most likely out — dawn and dusk.

When you do go out, carry a noise maker — a whistle, air horn, bell; bring a flashlight as the bright light can deter a coyote; have your dog on a leash; make yourself appear larger and ensure the coyote sees you as a person, not his next meal.

Do not bother yelling as coyotes have become accustomed to people's voices, therefore, yelling will not likely deter them.

If you are concerned about coyotes in your neighbourhood, contact the Ministry of Natural Resources at 1-800-667-1940.

You can also report sightings to Town of Whitchurch-Stouffville bylaw staff, however, according to senior bylaw officer Nancy Cronsberry, town officers can only enforce municipal bylaws and they only deal with domestic animals.

HOW ABOUT NIGHT OUT WITH OWLS, COYOTES?

Want to learn more about coyotes? How about owls?

Toronto and Region Conservation Authority is hosting Hoot and Howl in Stouffville Jan. 29 from 7 to 9 p.m.

Meet at the Stouffville Arena, 12483 Ninth Line, to begin your "night of fun and adventure".

A short slide presentation on owls and coyotes is followed by a trip into the woods of the Stouffville Conservation Area. You can call out to the wild creatures in the hope they will hoot or howl back.

Dress warmly and bring a travel mug for hot chocolate. This event is free, but registration is required. Recommended for adults and children over seven years of age.

In the case of extreme weather on the day of the event, call the stewardship hotline for a notice of cancellation. For further information and registration, go to www.trcastewardshipevents.ca or call the hotline at 416-661-6600, ext. 5660.

Budding slogan writers sought by club

Do you have a knack for creating short catch phrases? If so, the Stouffville Garden Club wants your help.

In April 2012, the club is hosting the Ontario Horticultural Society's annual meeting and it needs a slogan.

"(We) thought a contest would be fun," said Diane Ward, an executive of the Stouffville club.

The slogan should tell people what the Stouffville Garden Club is and that they are welcome to join.

"It shouldn't be much more than 10 words, preferably shorter with a reference to plants, flowers or gardens in some way," Ms Ward said.

The winning slogan will appear on flyers being handed out to the 300 attendees.

"I know how many creative folks we have in this town, it's time to show all of us," Ms Ward said.

The deadline is Feb. 14, 2011.
