

Mark Cullen, Anna Olson speak at weekend spring home show

If you need fresh ideas for your home, both inside and out, you'll want to visit the Markham Spring Home Show, which runs Friday to Sunday at the Markham Fairgrounds on McCowan Road near Elgin Mills Road.

Check out the main stage where celebrity guest/pastry chef Anna Olson will speak at noon and 3 p.m. Saturday.

Gardening expert and Whitchurch-

Stouffville resident Mark Cullen will also speak at 2 p.m. Saturday.

More than 100 exhibitors and 10,000 guests visit the Markham Spring Home Show each year.

Partial proceeds go to Habitat for Humanity of York Region.

The show is operated by the York Region Media Group, which includes the Stouffville Sun-Tribune.

Town updates in your inbox, Stouffville

BY SANDRA BOLAN
sbolan@yrmg.com

News on Town of Whitchurch-Stouffville programs and events, as well as facility closures and class cancellations will all be delivered to your inbox starting by the end of this month.

That is when the town's leisure services department plans to launch its eNews initiative.

"Community development is a big part of what we want to do," said Nicole Ongman, manager of recreation for the town. "There's been an expressed need to get information to the community and the community wanting the information."

ENews bulletins are expected to go out once a month or in emergencies, such as last minute class cancellations.

News on Town of Whitchurch-Stouffville programs and events, as well as facility closures and class cancellations...

Although the department has thousands of e-mail addresses in its database, it cannot use them for this purpose. Which is why residents will have to subscribe to the eNews service at www.townofws.com
