

COMMUTING: New Edward St. lot, bigger trains coming

GO easing parking problems

GO Transit is offering its Whitchurch-Stouffville riders two free reserved parking spaces at the Lincolnville station for two months.

The promotion, which closes May 4, is being conducted to help alleviate some of the parking constraints at the Main Street station.

"It's not being fully utilized as Stouffville and it would be an easy ride up the road to Lincolnville," said Nick Spensieri, director of multi-modal for GO Transit.

The Lincolnville station at Bethesda Road and Tenth Line has more than 400 parking spots available, however, only 25 per cent of them are being used, according to GO Transit.

The Stouffville station has 243 parking spaces and is running over capacity at 113 per cent.

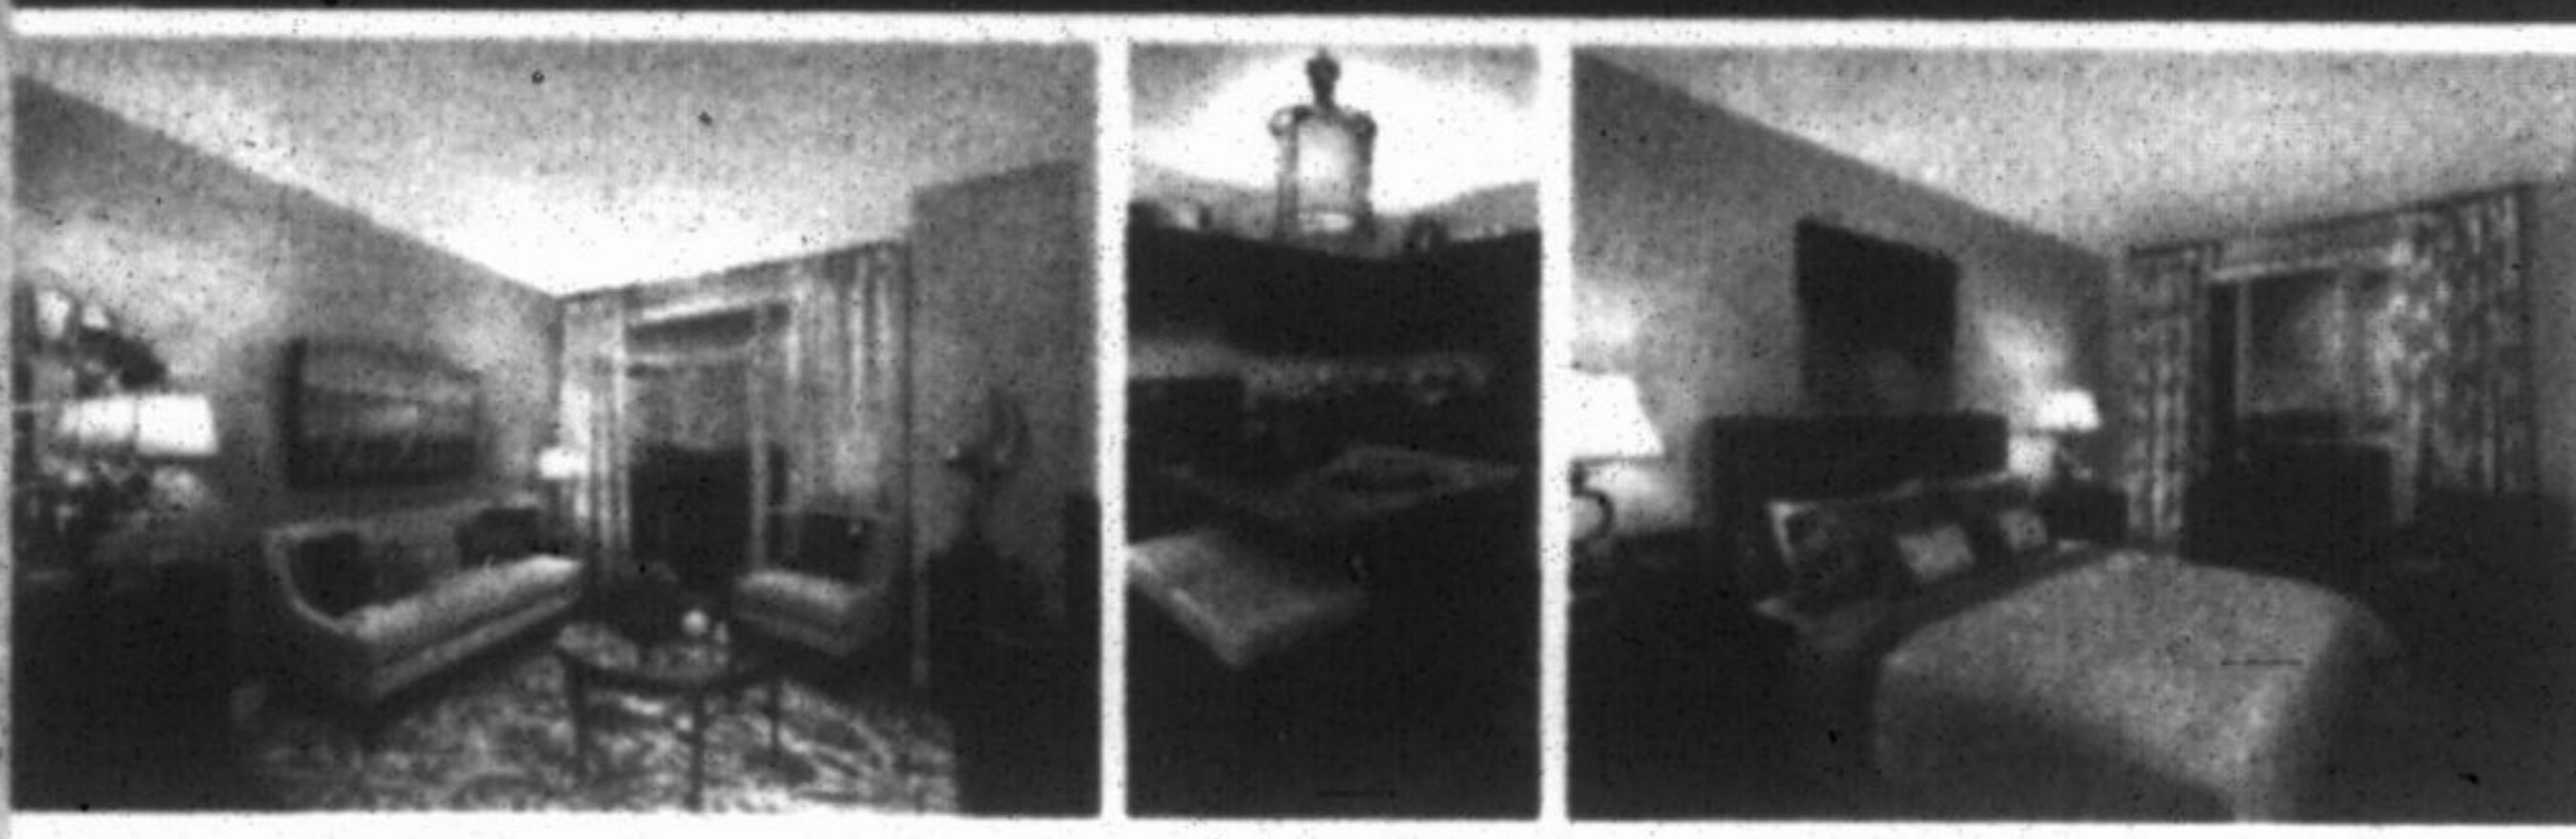

Besides encouraging people to utilize the Lincolnville station, which is in the same fair zone as Stouffville, GO Transit is adding 40 temporary parking spots at 67 Edward St., a plaza it purchased just north of Schell Lumber.

"We're aiming for this summer. Of course, we'll try to do it as quick as we can," Mr. Spensieri said.

Come next spring, construction to expand the Edward Street parking area to about 120 permanent spots will begin.

Construction to expand service to 12-car trains is also planned for next summer.
