

Town accepts diapers, dog feces

the region has been slowly phasing out since 2009.

"We're one of the few to take diapers and dog feces bags. ... It has to be looked at," Mayor Wayne Emmerson said this week.

Plastic accounts for 6 per cent of what the region collects through its organic waste program, region environmental services commissioner Erin Mahoney said.

Markham has opted to not enforce the new rules until further notice.

Markham has its own six-year-old Mission Green program and council decided to wait until that program is reviewed and possible changes are explored to achieve a higher diversion rate before implementing mandatory compostable bag usage.

Aurora, meanwhile, is strongly recommending residents comply with the region's mandatory requirement to use certified compostable bags, town spokesperson Michelle Dudzik said.

The town plans to conduct audits throughout the year to determine if enforcement is necessary.
