Metroland, Polar Media to launch 500 mobile apps

Polar Mobile will launch more than 500 mobile apps with Metroland Media for 104 local community newspapers across smartphone and tablet devices.

It is touted as the biggest mobile partnership in Canada.

"We are truly excited to take our leading community brands into the mobile application space with this unique and comprehensive solution, giving our readers and customers new ways to interact with our award-winning local content," said Ian Oliver, president, Metroland Media Group.

Metroland is Canada's largest community newspaper publisher with a combined distribution of 5 million copies per week.

The Sun-Tribune and its parent York Region Media Group are part of the Metroland organization.

The local newspaper space is an untapped opportunity in mobile, as the content is exclusive and the advertiser needs are unique.'

Polar Mobile's SMART Platform powers more than 1,000 mobile Apps today across iPhone, Black-Berry, Android and Windows smartphones for more than 300 publishers in 10 countries.

"The local newspaper space is an untapped opportunity in mobile, as the content is exclusive and the advertiser needs are unique," said Kunal Gupta, chief executive officer, Polar Mobile.

Polar Mobile's SMART<sup>TM</sup> Platform is a fully hosted and managed solution, incorporating mobile advertising, reporting, support and other key platform services.

Polar Mobile provides media companies globally an industryleading platform that makes it fast and easy to launch branded mobile apps across every smartphone.
