End of era in Vandorf

As did all the meetings of the Vandorf Community Centre board, the July meeting wrapped up at 8:30 p.m.

This time, when the members left the Vandorf Hall July 25 and locked the door behind them, it was for the last time. The Vandorf Community Centre board of directors will merge with the Whitchurch-Stouffville Museum board of directors later this year.

The Vandorf Community

Centre is being sold by the town and all activities that once took place there, are expected to move over to the museum's community centre rooms.

The Vandorf hall board's last bit of business included deciding where all of its artifacts were to go. The board decided to donate them to the museum, Pine Orchard Church, Cemetery Church, the Ladies Institute and Wesley Church.

CORRECTION

Statements incorrectly attributed to president

Statements in the story "Drownings changed little" in the July 30 Sun-Tribune should not have been attributed to Rick Wigmore, president of the Musselman's Lake Residents Association.

The Sun-Tribune regrets the error.
