Dare to combine lemon yellow and electric blue, the ultimate anti-depressant cocktail!

The major decorating trend in 2011 is to opt for bright colours and use lots of creativity in restoring old furniture. Tired old colour combinations, such as forest green and burgundy, are being traded in for blends never before seen, such as lime green and turquoise. Other colours that are all the rage: lemon yellow and electric blue, the ultimate anti-depressant cocktail. The idea is to show no hesitation in mixing styles and textures, although neutral colours are still the recommended standbys as a background for trendy colour accents.

To create visual interest in a room that is beginning to show décor fatigue, dress an old sofa in brightly coloured upholstery. A less expensive alternative is to cover some throw cushions with geometric or floral designs and combine them with others in plain colours or broad stripes.
