ent options, depending on the response we get from the artists in the community," she said, adding the artists will remain local.

This will be the second time the Lemonville Group of Artists has held a show in addition to its annual spring show at the Lemonville Community Centre.

The first one, held last fall at the Latcham Gallery, had a Views From The Moraine theme.

"We just got really excited after Latcham Gallery," Ms Wright said. "We'd like to just go further afield and get our art out to more people."

The opening reception is Tuesday, 7:30 to 9 p.m. at town hall, 111 Sandford Dr.

Harpist Gwyneth Reid will perform, artists will be present and light refreshments will be served.

The exhibit runs until March 29.

Stouffville man charged with sexually assaulting child

A Whitchurch-Stouffville man faces more than a dozen sex charges after police were told about sexual assaults against a child dating back nearly 30 years.

Crimes against children investigators were told in November that a boy was five years old when sexual assaults began in Markham as early as 1984, York Regional Police said.

A Stouffville man, 62, was arrested peacefully Wednesday at his Toronto workplace.

He is charged with five counts of sexual assault, three counts of sexual interference, three counts of invitation to sexual touching, two counts of gross indecency, possessing child pornography and accessing child pornography.
