Brokers aid new goalies

The Whitchurch-Stouffville Minor Hockey Association was among 40 minor provincial hockey associations to receive a set of brand new goalie equipment as part of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association's Insurance Brokers Association of Ontario (IBAO) Goalie Assist Program, the OMHA said in a news release Thursday.

The program is an effort to support youngsters who have aspirations on becoming a hockey goalkeeper, by providing a set of goaltending equipment to players between the ages of five to seven who are interested in trying the position.

The IBAO will also provide minor hockey associations with goaltending resources to aid coaches.

"IBAO continues to support this great provincial group focused on building and growing the skills of youth in our communities," said Randy Carroll, IBAO chief executive officer. "Brokers are committed to the people and programs in their communities. This type of sponsorship directly relates to that commitment by encouraging youth to be active."

"We are thankful for the continued support of the Insurance Brokers of Ontario," said Joyce Junker, OMHA president. "Becoming a goaltender requires a significant initial investment. This program will help afford children a better opportunity to get a chance to try the position."

The OMHA received 114 applications from minor hockey associations across the province.

Founded in 1935, the OMHA is the largest minor hockey association in the world and oversees a participant base of 300,000, consisting of players, coaches, trainers, officials, hockey volunteers and parents across the province.

The OMHA has 246 active member minor hockey associations and annually co-ordinates 45 leagues and approximately 600 development clinics throughout Ontario.
