

Stouffville's Matt Traub will get more IIHF work. Traub back on world stage

Matt Traub is one of 21 Canadian hockey officials who have been assigned by the International Ice Hockey Federation to work at 12 different IIHF events during the 2012-13 season, Hockey Canada announced Monday.

The Stouffville resident who works as a linesman, was assigned to the IIHF World Under-18 Championships to be played in Sochi, Russia from April 18-28.

Last year, Traub worked the IIHF World Championship division one Group A playdowns in Ljubljana, Slovenia.

His resume includes working two Memorial Cup championships, a world under-17 and world junior championship.

Yankees score awards for rookie season

The Stouffville Yankees Baseball Association was a big hit on the diamond in their inaugural campaign this past summer.

Off the field, their work in launching baseball in Whitchurch-Stouffville did not go unnoticed.

At the annual York Simcoe Baseball Association awards banquet Sunday, the Yankees received high recognition in several categories.

They won the association's Local Association of the Year award for its excellence in operating in accordance with association standards.

Hosting the association's Mosquito select championships was a big step in winning the award, combined with excellent feedback from visiting teams.

Praise was shared with the Town of Whitchurch-Stouffville for providing "a magnificent facility" at Bethesda Sports Fields.

Mike Krabi accepted the award on behalf of the Yankees and was quick to acknowledge the volunteer board members who put in countless hours of service.

Krabi acknowledged fellow board members George Karanopoulos, Rob Holmes, Mike Banville, Tom Olidis and Bill Seaward for exemplary service.

He also gave thanks to Mayor Wayne Emmerson for backing the group and to staffers Rob Raycroft, Mike Richardson, Janet Ruhl, Bruce Hatt and parks staff for "providing excellent service" to their organization.

Karanopoulos won the YSBA Executive Member of the Year award for leading the Yankees, which had 240 players and 21 teams play in the inaugural season.

Karanopoulos also received high praise for running a successful association championship weekend in Stouffville and for hosting a successful tournament.

"It was coaches like Kenneth Arcinas, Steve Horsely, Nadine Thompson, Shawn Ferris, Mario Forino and countless others who stood out as great role models, working with the kids every week providing a fun and safe atmosphere at the ball diamonds," Karanopoulos said.

Karanopoulos thanked his wife Joanne for standing by his side and being patient, as running the organization took away valuable family time.

In the players category, Yankees mosquito select player Spencer Krabi won the association's Select Player of the Year award.

Krabi had the highest batting average during their championship tournament, hitting .846 during the weekend.

Stouffville house league players nominated for awards included: peeewe and below: Steven Fiorino and Jake Dilley, bantam and above: Alex McMahon and Matt Hamilton.

President Jeffrey Albalm said the association looked forward to Stouffville's second season of operations. The Yankees will be allowed to enter rep teams for the first time.
