Legend takes on challengers

A Canadian snooker legend is returning to Stouffville.

Cliff Thorburn will be at Royal Canadian Legion Branch 459 Feb. 2 to show off some of his trick shots and take on challengers. The event is free.

By the time Mr. Thorburn retired in 1996, he had earned 14 Canadian and 27 world-wide titles, however, none of them are more memorable than the 1983 Embassy World Professional Championships during which Mr. Thorburn completed its first-ever perfect game.

Mr. Thorburn has entertained crowds at the local legion twice before.

The exhibition gets underway at 1 p.m. at the Stouffville legion, 150 Mostar St.

For more information, call the legion at 905-640-1714.

Canada on display at museum

A travelling exhibit expressing the identity and experiences of 26 people living across Canada will be at the Whitchurch-Stouffville Museum Feb. 11 to March 31.

Defining Moments Exhibit: Discovering Our Canadian Stories, is a national digital media arts and citizenship project aimed at engaging youth across Canada to explore, express and showcase their diverse perspectives on Canadian identity.

The pieces were created by 13- to 30-year-olds and the 26 artists in the exhibit were selected by a jury and represent eight provinces/territories.

While at the museum, 14732 Woodbine Ave., visitors are encouraged to participate in an on-site art activity that expresses your Canadian identity.

The exhibit was created by TakingITGlobal and supported by Canadian Heritage.
