

You know you're really a mom when...

HAPPY MOTHER'S DAY
May 11, 2014

-  You count the number of sprinkles on each kid's cupcake to make sure they are equal.
- You hide in the bathroom to be alone.
-  Your child throws up and you catch it.
- Someone else's kid throws up at a party and you keep eating.
- You master the art of placing food on a plate without anything touching.
-  Your child insists that you read "Once upon a Potty" out loud in the doctor's waiting room and you do it.
- You hire a babysitter, because you haven't been out with your husband in ages, then you spend half the night talking about the kids and checking in with the sitter.
- You hope ketchup is a vegetable, because it's the only one your child eats.
-  You find yourself cutting your husband's sandwiches into unusual shapes.
- You fast-forward through the scene where the hunter shoots Bambi's mother.

You obsess about your child clinging to you when it's time to go to school, then you obsess about her running in without looking back.

You can't bear to give away baby clothes — it's so final!

You hear your mother's voice coming out of your mouth when you say, "Not in your good clothes."

You stop criticizing the way your mother raised you.

You read that the average five-year-old asks 437 questions a day and feel proud that your kid is "above average".

You have time to shave only one leg at a time.

You don't mind sharing a public swimming pool with dozens of pee-filled, swimmy-diapered toddlers.

Your purse contains endless clean and not-so-clean facial tissues.

When you don't mind putting on Winnie the Pooh, Snow White, or Spiderman bandages.

You wouldn't change any of these things for a million dollars!
