During the preliminaries, Cockburn scored 98.190 points for her compulsory and optional routines.

Tan in hunt for rookie driver award

Samantha Tan drove to a fifth-place finish in the Touring Class division at the recent 2014 Canadian Touring Car Championship at the Canadian Tire Motorsport road course near Bowmanville.

The 17-year-old Gormley resident finished ninth in the overall series standings and had the top placement by a rookie for the 14-race season.

Highlighting her season was a fourth-place effort at ICAR Mirabel in early July.

With the season now over, Tan has an opportunity to win the rookie of the year, which will be handed out at a season-ending banquet later this year.

Tan is contemplating entry into the Pirelli World Cup Challenge in a rear wheel drive car of similar power to the Mini Cooper she drove this season.

The Pirelli World Cup Challenge is comprised of 14 races over seven weekends, held at six tracks in the United States and one in Canada from April to mid September.
