Atoms wax opposition in Markham tourney

The Stouffville major atom AE Clippers got their season off to a good start, skating off with their division title at the recent Markham Waxers Early Bird Tournament, culminating with a 3-2 victory over the host Waxers 3-2 in the championship final played in Scarborough.

The Clippers reached the final after going undefeated with victories over Milton 4-1, Erin 5-3 and Ancaster 8-1.

Wise gets shot with Hawks farm team

Jamie Wise won't be reporting to the Quad City Mallards of the Central Hockey League this season after all.

Instead, the 23-year-old Stouffville resident who toiled the last two seasons with the Ryerson University Rams, will be making a detour to Rockford, Ill.

Wise will report to the training camp of the Chicago Blackhawks' top farm club, their American Hockey League affiliate, in Rockford Saturday after the NHL club offered him a minor league contract last week.

That all came about after the performance Wise put forth at the Hawks' entry at the recent Prospects Tournament in London, Ont. impressed their management.

In early August, Wise accepted an invitation to join the Hawks' Prospects Tournament team.

Before heading to London, Wise signed a contract with the Quad City Mallards.

But Wise noted if the Hawks offered him a minor league contract, his deal with Quad City would become null and void.

For Wise, it was what he was hoping for all along after he came off a season which he amassed a team-high 45 points (21 goals and 24 assists) in 26 Ontario University Athletics contests while playing under his father, Rams' head coach Graham Wise.

The third-leading point getter in the Canadian Interuniversity Sport circuit, Wise was also a second team CIS all-star.

Wise toiled in the Ontario Hockey League with the Mississauga-St. Michael's Majors and Peterborough Petes and Newmarket Hurricanes of the Ontario Junior Hockey League.
