

Midgets visit U.S. college

When Brian MacKenzie became head coach of the Stouffville major midget AA Clippers this season he wanted to try something a little different with his minor hockey club.

Rather than enter his team in tournaments in which they might spend an exorbitant amount of money and see the same opponents they might face again, he elected to take his team south of the border and not just to play some games.

He wanted to give them a sampling of what college life is like and took them to Elmira, N.Y. where they visited the State University of New York at Elmira.

While the Clippers took to the ice for a pair of exhibition games against the Elmira Soaring Eagles junior varsity team and skated off with a 6-3 win followed by a 3-3 overtime tie in their second tilt, MacKenzie felt the weekend outing was a huge success on and off the ice.

Brendan MacKenzie and Landon Boothby each scored twice for the Clippers in the win. Nic Rabito and Ryan Dunlop added single tallies. In the tie game, Ayden Hughes, MacKenzie and Rabito each had one goal.

"We have a few kids who are interested in getting the Jr. A route and in getting scholarships and we wanted to try and find something a little different for them," he said. "It was a great weekend. We were treated first class and it was a real eye opener for them."

Prior to Stouffville, the elder MacKenzie was a coach and assistant general manager with the Georgetown Raiders Jr. A club.

During that time, he forged plenty of contacts, including with the coaching staff at Elmira College.

Along with touring the campus and playing two, three-period, 20-minute stop time friendlies at the Murray Athletic Center which serves as the home of the Elmira College Soaring Eagles varsity team, the club also had the good fortune to attend an ECHL game featuring the Elmira Jackals in between their two playing dates.

"The kids definitely had a great time," MacKenzie said.
