Free Session Offers Resources For Seniors

A group of local business entrepreneurs and care providers are hosting Choices for Seniors and Their Families, a free information session for people who are at a transitional stage in their lives.

The event takes place Feb. 26 from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Stouffville Legion, 150 Mostar St. and consists of presentations from experts on a variety of topics including health and wellness, selling your home, home and health care services and funeral pre-planning.

The idea for the session came during a meeting of Women For Women, a group of small business leaders in York Region. Some are members of the 'sandwich' generation, with children still in school and aging parents whose needs are changing, and who are looking for community resources to ease their transition.

As event organizer Kimberly Stark of Industrial Admin Solutions explained, "There are a lot of resources out there, but people often don't know they exist. We want to help them make the most of what's available."

To register, call Kim at 416-556-0579 or email K.Stark@IndustrialAdmin.ca. All participants will receive information packages and refreshments will be provided by local restaurants.

PUT YOURSELF...

Local students gather around a map of the world on the front desk at Whitchurch-Stouffville Public Library before a PA day movie on Jan. 20. Residents are invited to visit the library and place a marker indicating the country of their birth, providing visual evidence of the increasingly diverse nature of our community. It's already getting pretty crowded, so come on down and make your mark!
