Heirloom Tomatoes

by Doris Fusco,
Giardino Organic Farm

What is an Heirloom Vegetable? Most of these varieties have been passed down from generation to generation. Many seeds were brought in simple envelopes or cloth enclosures all the way across the oceans. What is so curious about these strains is that their history and characteristics do not compare with any hybrid. "Why go to all the trouble to preserve these varieties when I can buy tomatoes from the grocery stores?" I am asked. Their outstanding flavour is the reason, they are unbeatable!!

At Giardino Organic Farm we proudly grow over 100 varieties of tomatoes. We offer many colours like green with yellow stripes, black with red stripes, heart shaped, oval, round, grape varieties, beefsteak varieties, pinky red, purple brown ones, flattened shapes, orangey red and smokey rose ones. Our selection of over 15 lettuce/greens varieties includes lettuces that have oak shaped leaves, green leaves with maroon splashes, a deer tongue variety and one of the reddest of lettuces you will ever see! Our assortment also offers peppers, cone shaped cabbage, eggplant, kale and cucumber. One cannot leave Giardino without trying our Lemon Cucumber. The fruit has the same colour, shape and size of a lemon and is so delicious!!

Many of our clients return each year to gather their favourites and make room to try something new! Just imagine your eye catching prepared platters gracing your dinner table to share with family and friends. Come out and try some varieties. You may never want to grow a hybrid again.
