THE FOAM OF THE SEA. No Matter What the Color of the Water, the Froth Will be White, No one can have failed to notice that the foam along the shore of the sea or of a lake is white. No matter how deep the blue of the water may be, there is the same whiteness of the froth at its edge. For that matter, all foam is white. If the blackest ink in the world is beaten into foam, the foam will be as white as the froth of milk. The reason for this is that we see all objects by reflected light. If they reflect all the rays they appear white; if they absorb all the rays they seem to be black. The ink absorbs all the light, and is black. When it is beaten into froth, the little bubbles reflect all the light from their surfacesfor their extreme thinness makes them practically nothing but surface - and thus they are white. For the same reason any colored stone shows white when it grains, and these will appear white, because their surfaces now reflect all the light. If the polished surface of the same marble be only a little scratched, as with a nail or drill-point, the effect will be a light-colored streak. One of the ways of testing stones and minerals is to observe the color of the streak as compared with the natural surface. If one watches the water falling over the rock at Niagara he may see it of an emerald green near the upper part of the fall. Much the same effect is produced when billows are just curving into breakers on the beach directly in front of us. A similar tint is seen in blocks of thick are the same under all these condiof the fall and that at the edge of the sea is all of it equally white. So, the spider's web as compared with the is the difference seen if the cold has con-A Remarkable Surgical Feat. arm. It was operated on at the time,

Bagging Attachment

For the Chatham Mill. as formerly, yet still, we keep Just received a carload of those famous mills which farmers can secure at reasonthree men employed on new able prices. This machine is complete in every respect and will give the best satisfaction to those who use it. The manner of driving the bagging attachment was recently much improved. It is now driven by a chain belt that will not stip nor come off the pullies. Anyone who has once used it would on no consideration go back to the one We try to keep Thursday style of mill. It distances anything of its kind on the market. A few points in its forenoons for "right away jobs" favor are these: -1st-It runs very easily. 2nd-It takes up very little extra room on the floor. 8rd--Fourteen inches square space on the floor will hold the machine, and any farmer can spare that from his barn or granary 4th-Will bag any kind of grain from the finest seed, such as timothy or clover, up to the coarsest grain, such as beans Repairing done every work- or corn. 5th-Will bag from 60 to 80 bushels of wheat per hour, and 100 bushels of outs per hour. 6th-Your grain does not go to the floor, thereby saving considerable waste. 7th-Two men with the Bagger will do as much work as three men without it. 8th-It can be attached to any Chatham Mill manufactured during the last five years We will try and do with you, Special outfit for cleaning alsike. This machine is worthy the inspection of farmers.
