

SERIOUS SITUATION.

There are considerable goings to and fro among diplomatic chiefs in Europe at present owing to the grave situation of affairs in the East.

A concert of the powers has failed to effect any good results, and the events which are now taking place completely overwhelm diplomacy. According to recent telegraphic advices the rigging of the instruments in Macedonia has become extremely formidable. Greece, while pretending to take stringent measures against any persons engaging in a raid upon the Macedonian frontier, has allowed upwards of 600 men, all of them armed with Greek rifles, to enter Macedonia from Greek territory. These men, after surprising and cutting to pieces the Turkish troops at Moussa, succeeded in repulsing a strong force of Turkish soldiers which had been sent from Salonica to reinforce the Moussa troops.

A dispatch to The Vossische Zeitung says that the telefs (reserves), who have been called on under a trade from the Sultan, are showing a disposition to revolt in consequence of the fact that their pay is very much in arrears and the rations which are being issued to them are very bad in quality and very small in quantity.

A dispatch received by The Neue Freie Press from Salonica on Thursday says that the statements made by the Turkish officials concerning the situation are all calculated to conceal the desperate condition of affairs in Macedonia. Hard fighting is going on almost every day at Drumnitzza Serris and all points to the Perin Mountains.

The Turkish reserves at Prizrend, Proshina and elsewhere in the section are being equipped and sent to the front as rapidly as possible, and it is estimated that the total number of Turkish troops concentrated on the Macedonian and Bulgarian frontiers exceeds 7,000 men. Even this force, however, has not been found sufficient to make any headway against the insurrection, which, under the influence of the successes already achieved by the insurgents in the field, is becoming stronger every day.

Stimulated by these and similar reports, semi-official newspaper organs, like The North German Gazette and The Cologne Gazette, are taking a more definite tone in their articles commenting upon the gravity of the situation. The North German Gazette reproduces an article from The Cologne Gazette which declares that unless the powers interfere in an energetic way instead of submitting proposals to the Porte the troubles in Crete and Macedonia will never end.

The Reichshote (Conservative) publishes a letter written by a German lady living at Monastir, wherein the writer narrates atrocities which are practised here every day without the slightest attempt at interference on the part of the authorities. Among the horrors of which the lady treats in her communication she details the fact of Turks outraging Macedonian women and girls publicly in the streets before the eyes of their husbands and parents. This letter has stirred up a strong feeling of public indignation here, more in fact than the recent massacres and outrages in Armenia. The Reichshote, in an article accompanying the letter, appeals to the powers to cease their jealousies and interfere in behalf of the Macedonians and Christians in the interests of humanity.

The Bismarckian organs, on the other hand, are strongly opposed to any policy of interference on the part of Germany.

At the political demonstration at St. John's, Que., on Saturday last in the interests of Mr. Tarte, the Premier, Hon. Mr. Laurier, who was presented with an illuminated address made the following statements in regard to the Liberal Policy.

The Tory papers also reproach me with not exposing my fiscal policy. I will do so to-day. The platform of the Liberal Party which is to-day in power is exactly the same as when it was in the Opposition. I declare on this occasion that we will proceed, with caution in order not to injure the established interests. Such is the program of the Liberal Party. We are to have a session on the 18th of August, but it will be very short. We will vote the budget and nothing more. There will be no legislation. We will provide for the public expenditure, nothing more. The changes in the tariff will be deferred to the new session, which will be held in January or February. Until then what shall we do?

We shall communicate with the managers of industries, manufacturers etc., and together we shall elaborate a fiscal policy which will be of a nature to lighten the burden of taxes which lie upon this country. Another thing which we propose to do, if we want to protect the business of this country, we must take in the interests of the agricultural class. Agriculture suffers to-day. You farmers, you work hard from one end of the year to the other, and you can hardly make both ends meet. You are less remunerated to-day than you were 15 years ago, and there is all evil to remedy. It is not for my government to raise the price of your farm products, but we can reduce the price of what you must purchase for your consumption. That is what we want to do. We can also facilitate the sale of your products by establishing rapid transit and facilitating communication with European markets, and this we will do before long. The third item on our programme is to develop the Northwest. In 1878 we founded great hopes on the Northwest, and thought that our population would attain 10,000,000, and to-day we are hardly more than 6,000,000, to pay the increase in the national debt. What we want to do is to increase the population and thus decrease your expenses, and to attain that end we shall develop the Northwest.

Another plank of our platform to which I draw your attention is our relation with Old England. The English market is open to all the nations of the world on equal footing. It might be possible to obtain from England a preferential treaty, which would be exclusively for our products.

As to relations with the United States, I am of the opinion that they have not been as they should have been. For nearly 30 years the governments have not treated each other very cordially. We propose to try and establish amicable relations with them like friends, and not like enemies. There are some people who are of the opinion that such a step would not be loyal to England. I will not admit that one nation's friendship with another is a sign of hostility towards a third nation. If we succeed in establishing friendly relations with the United States we will revive the reciprocity treaty of 1853-56, the era of good times for the Provinces of Quebec and Ontario.

In your beautiful address you speak about the Manitoba School Question. I only want six months in which to settle the question, and, if I am not mistaken, before that time is over the question will be settled without exciting the prejudices of anybody and rendering justice to whom justice is due.

THE APPLE EXPORT TRADE

There is going to be trouble this year in handling the summer and fall apple crop for export. The season is about two or three weeks earlier than in previous years and the weather is so hot that apple packages, unless there is cold storage, would soon spoil in the shipment, and that in a few days. There is no use shipping ripe fruit to England in the summer and early fall months. If Canadians want to be successful in packing fruit they should imitate the methods followed by those who ship tropical fruits and pick green. Whether for shipment or not, apples and pears should not be allowed to ripen on the trees if their keeping qualities are to be preserved. Full apples for shipment to England especially in warm weather, should be picked fully three weeks before they are ripe, and they will stand the voyage and keep infinitely longer. Oranges and lemons for export are picked perfectly green, and so should our apples and pears. In the absence of cold storage, unless the immense crop of apples in Ontario is harvested early and on the green side, one-half of those exportable will never see the English market. There is very little fruit, especially apples in England this season, and there will be a keen demand for Canadian apples this fall and winter, if they are got there in proper shape, and that is by packing green, and shipping by fast transport direct to the several English centres.

THE HOME MARKETS FOR CHEESE

There has been considerable talk during the past year or so in reference to the development of our home markets for cheese. The agitation along this line has taken the form of a cry. But that has been the price for cheese for export had been more noticeable since cheese has taken the drop in price. Before that time the prices for cheese for export had been good for a number of years, and the local market was largely locked upon only as a dumping ground for all cheese that was not considered of fine enough quality to send to the English consumer. Since the depression in prices, however, leading dairymen have been looking to the home market as an outlet for some of our fine Cheddar cheese.

Comparatively little of our cheese is consumed in Canada. Our people only use it as a kind of relish, and not at all as a staple article of food. We are in no sense of the term a cheese-eating people. True, we have not the great centres of population that the mother country has, comprised of the working and middle classes, who have to use wholesome, substantial, and economical foods in order to sustain them when at work, and which can be had at the lowest possible cost; but we have in Canada a large agricultural class whose outdoor employment compels them to take nutritious foods, and, besides, in our cities and towns a large class of workmen who are compelled to live as economical as possible. There appears, therefore, to be considerable room for developing our home market for cheese, and for inducing our people to become greater consumers of that nutritious article of food than they are.

FACTS ABOUT CANADA

THE DOMINION FISHERIES THE GREAT-EST IN THE WORLD AND HOW THEY ARE WORKED

The fisheries of Canada are the most extensive in the world. The coast line of British Columbia is more than double that of Great Britain and Ireland.

The eastern coast line of Canada covers a distance of nearly 6,000 miles. Over 15,000 square miles of salt water inshore sea, not including prior indentations, belong to Canada and each mile abounds in fish life.

The most important deep sea fisheries of the world are on the Atlantic ocean off the Canadian coast.

At the last census 80,000 men were found employed in the fishing industry in Canada. Their boats and nets were then worth $9,439,116.

Fourteen hatcheries for fish breeding have been established by the Government in different parts of the country. A fishing bounty of $160,000 a year is paid by the government to fishermen to encourage the business.

Fifty-five fishing intelligence bureaux which report by telegraph the movement in different parts of the country. Prizes offered for the best model of a safe boat for deep sea fishing are competed for yearly by Canadian fishermen.

Eight steamers and two fast sailing schooners are engaged to protect the fishing on the sea coasts and lakes of Canada.

The Hudson's Bay company have established salmon fisheries in a number of rivers of the Northwest. All the fisheries are Esquimaux and 14-pound trout are often taken.

In one year 125,840,000 fry have been distributed over Canadian lakes from the Canadian hatcheries.

An expert from Great Britain has been employed in establishing and restocking oyster beds in Shediac and Tracadie, N. S.

The fisheries of the Great Lakes are the most important fresh water fisheries in the world.

Fish to the value of $1,650,000 were taken out of the Great Lakes in 1894. The total quantity of fish caught in the Great Lakes during the twelve years 1893, 1894, amounted to 293,707,000 pounds, valued at $17,860,000.

Nearly one hundred million pounds of herring were taken from the Canadian half in twelve years.
