The Cement Age.

The use of Portland cement is in its infancy and the manufacture of it on a large scale is only beginning in this country. Cement promises to replace stone for all kinds of heavy foundations and other work, to replace brick for paving, to replace or to replace lumber where lumber has been used. In fact, cement will soon be next to steel, perhaps more than steel, the chief building material on the continent. Our houses will soon come to be of cement, and every day sees the field for the use of cement growing at a surprising ratio.

We are glad to see that there are good prospects ahead for our new cement companies and that there is room for many others. We have large public works that must be undertaken in one part of the Dominion or another. Our farmers are learning them selves to build with cement without employing skilled labor, and cement is supplanting everything in the market in the way of flooring for buildings, and especially for stables and all kinds of public structures.

In Toronto we are bound to use any amount of this article, and men of capital and enterprise ought to be looking about to see if there are not some deposits combining all the elements of cement near the city. Freight is everything in the production of this article, and if the original elements can be found near Toronto it will be an inducement for Toronto capitalists to develop the production of cement in this immediate neighborhood.

The World trusts that all the new factories recently started or organized in this country will succeed, and that many others will follow suit to supply the unexpected and growing demand there appears to be for this article. The fact that the city of Toronto is experiencing such a shortage of cement at present that a great deal of the sidewalk laying arranged for this season may have to be laid over till next spring, alone constitutes a key to the true situation.
