Stouffville's Celine Galaise, owner of the organic/vegan juice food truck Cil's Place, puts the finishing touches on a creation. A senior sales and marketing manager for 22 years, she launched the new career after being downsized. Her truck will be one of at least 28 expected at the second Food Truck Frenzy and Music Festival next Thursday night in downtown Stouffville. For more on the event and Galaise, turn to page 15.

Altmann denies any election wrongdoing

BY SANDRA BOLAN

Mayor Justin Altmann is accused of having "... a disregard and disdain for the rule of law" and "feels that the laws do not apply to him," by Stouffville resident Ian Hilton.

The statement was included in an application to a York Region Joint Compliance Committee requesting Altmann's 2014 mayoral campaign financial statements be subjected to a forensic audit.

The request will go to a public hearing in Stouffville later this month.

Hilton is the husband of former Ward 4 councillor Susanne Hilton. After 11 years, she opted to not run in the last election.

"The fact is the financial statement just didn't add up and I felt there was a need to take a closer look," Hilton told The Sun-Tribune.

"I think that as a citizen it's very important we protect the values of the electoral system. ... It is so important we maintain fairness and we maintain honesty in these things," Hilton said in an interview.

Altmann won a five-man race for mayor last Oct. 27.

Altmann called the accusations inaccurate, a waste of taxpayers' money and said he has all his receipts in his office for anyone to look at, during an interview last week.
