Long wait for condo buyers 'ending'

BY SANDRA BOLAN

All debts are paid and it is anticipated a building permit will be issued any day now. Construction at Glengrove on the Park is expected to resume after Labour Day and occupancy is slated for the spring, according to Michael MacChesney, manager of the Rupert Avenue condominium project. The developer — Anthony Egi — had until the close of business Friday to pay the Town of Whitchurch-Stouffville the more than $5 million he owed in development charges and other fees.

Egi also paid about $1.5 million in outstanding fees to various trades, according to MacChesney. "It makes us feel good. There's always doubt. We're excited the project can finally go forward."
