50 YEARS
OF SERVICE

In preparation for its 50th anniversary, Parkview Services for Seniors has a beautiful, historically correct mural of Stouffville past and present, painted by Bruni Neilsen, underway in the Parkview Village atrium. For more on the history of the seniors' housing organization, see Jim Thomas' column on page 6.

ARENA SOLAR PROJECT, CO-OP DEAD

BY SANDRA BOLAN
sbolan@yrmg.com

The sun has set on the Whitchurch-Stouffville Energy Co-operative's solar project for the Stouffville Clippers Sports Complex. "It was a dream that we had that gradually got eroded," Harry French, the co-op's president told The Sun-Tribune yesterday morning. In what amounted to a last ditch effort, the Whitchurch-Stouffville co-op partnered with Queen Street Solar Co-operative, which would have taken on the construction and operation of the project at the Weldon Road twin-rinks complex. In order for Queen Street Co-operative to take over, the local co-op wanted the $100,000 security deposit rescinded. The request was denied. "The request for waiving the security clause and the licence agreement be rejected," was
