No charges will be laid against a man who was accused of pointing a gun at another man and later arrested on Main Street in Stouffville Tuesday.

At about 1:15 p.m., York Regional Police were called to a Ninth Line residence for a weapons-related incident.

"A man pointed a gun at another man and then left the scene in a vehicle," Const. Andy Pattenden said Tuesday.

DENTIST'S PORCH

About 30 minutes later, police located the vehicle, a black and grey Ford 350 super duty pickup truck. It was parked on William Street, just north of Main Street and east of Ninth Line. The suspect was not inside.

The suspect was apprehended, without incident, on the porch of Dr. William Zeck's office, which is located at Main and William streets.

The canine unit of Const. Adam Bosomworth and Luke was called in to search the exterior of the dental office for a gun, which was not found, according to Pattenden.
