

Permit parking coming to town

BY ALI RAZA

It's a first for this town. Whitchurch-Stouffville council has approved paid permit parking in parts of its downtown lots and residential areas.

The motion came after staff recommended the new parking permit system in a report that outlined updated fees associated with parking as well as a new online payment system.

The town currently owns 247 parking spots in the downtown area. Staff informed council that costs of parking would be similar to Aurora.

Proposed fees for residential areas include $10 for one-day parking, $25 for three days and $20 for weekend parking.

Proposed fees for downtown commercial parking include $30 for one week, $75 for one month, $150 for three months and $200 for six months.

Town staff described the program as a "pilot" program that would make way for an online ticketing program.

"I'm not crazy about the fees," Councillor Rick Upton said. "But you (staff) are the experts."
