Geiger back from Buffalo camp after signing with AHL affiliate

Paul Geiger concluded his college hockey career at Clarkson University earlier this year.

But the 23-year-old Stouffville resident and former Stouffville Spirit defenceman will be continuing his on-ice exploits.

Only this time he will be doing it at a higher level in the American Hockey League as a member of the Rochester Americans, who recently signed Geiger to a one-year, one-way AHL contract.

With the Americans an affiliate of the NHL's Buffalo Sabres, Geiger attended the Sabres' Summer Development Camp, which concluded Tuesday in Buffalo.

"You go there and you learn a lot," he said of his time at the week-long camp. "It was hard work but it was good and fun."

Signing an Amateur Tryout with the Albany Devils of the AHL after graduating from Clarkson, Geiger made his debut with the New Jersey Devils' affiliate March 20. He played in nine games and had one goal and one assist.

AHL EXPERIENCE

While Geiger had an opportunity to return to Albany for the upcoming season, he noted a Buffalo Sabres' scout watched him play while he was at Clarkson and with Albany.

A free agent after his Amateur Tryout with Albany expired, Geiger was presented with a contract by Albany and one from Buffalo.

He selected the Sabres' organization, primarily because of the potential ice time he can receive.

"I felt I had a better opportunity with Rochester since they're rebuilding at the back end," he cited.

Geiger feels he has a bit of a head start.

"The games I had in Albany definitely give me the confidence to play at that level," he said. "I now have a sense of the style and speed of the game and I know what to expect."

SPIRIT TO CLARKSON

Hoping to crack Rochester's lineup when the AHL regular season begins, Geiger knows it's not a given that he will make it.

"I'll be in the mix battling for a spot," he said. "But I'll have to go out there and play well and earn my spot."

"The only assurance will be is that I get my chance to show them what I can do."

During his four seasons at Clarkson where he captained the club in his junior and senior campaigns, Geiger recorded 13 goals and 38 assists in 150 contests.

In his final season at Clarkson, Geiger had five goals and eight assists.

Geiger played with the Spirit for two seasons starting in the 2010-11 campaign and concluded it the following season where he played an integral role in helping the club win the Ontario Junior Hockey League title.
