Maintain your independence

For some seniors, poor balance, weakness, or limited range of motion can make it difficult to bathe or shower. Tubs can be difficult to get in and out of and showers may create an even greater risk of falling. For seniors who are capable of living on their own, but experience barriers in caring for themselves independently, there are assistive devices and adaptive aids that can help.

THINGS TO DO

North Bay playwright makes debut in Stouffville tonight

Look out Whitchurch-Stouffville, there's some new players in town! North Bay's newest theatre troupe, the Proscenium Club, will premiere their inaugural production I Live With Him Every Day or The Tragedy of David and Dave Sept. 8 at 7:30 p.m. at 19 on the Park.

Written and directed by Joshua Bainbridge, I Live With Him Every Day explores the truth we are all afraid of realizing; that we might not be special.

It examines the lives of five young people struggling to live in a world in which parents are absent and friends make desperate efforts to fill the gap. With a fresh, contemporary voice, this dark comedy is an edgy portrayal of youth lost and adrift in the big city.

Although this is the first play staged by the newly formed Proscenium Club, its members have been working in the North Bay theatre scene for the past few years.

Bainbridge, who founded the troupe just this summer, has been writing and producing his own works since 2010 after graduating from Canadore College's Theatre Arts program. Seeing a shortage of new theatrical works emerging from Northern Ontario, he brought together several passionate like-minded artists to form a self-sufficient company to create and produce new Canadian theater.

The premiere at 19 on the Park is one of two stops for the Proscenium Club. Following Thursday's performance the troupe will pack up and head over to the Uxbridge Music Hall for an encore staging, also at 7:30 p.m.

Tickets for both performances are $20 plus any applicable fees and taxes charged by the venues.

This small professional tour is being conducted in collaboration with the Future In Safe Hands (FISH) Collective (www.fishcollective.com), a cross-cultural multi-arts collective of Indigenous and non-Indigenous artists also operating out of the North Bay area.
