

2,400 parking spaces being added at GO stations

The provincial government is getting rolling on alleviating parking woes at two congested GO Transit lots in Vaughan.

Transportation Minister Steven Del Duca, MPP for Vaughan, announced Thursday that multi-level parking structures will be built at the Maple and Rutherford GO stations to add 1,200 new spots at each site. Construction of the parking structures is slated to begin in 2018.

Metrolinx, the provincial transit agency, is also adding new pedestrian tunnels at both stations to connect to a future second track and platform needed to increase GO Transit service.

That project will require the temporary relocation of parking spaces at both stations, but the number of parking spots will not be affected.
