

Motus O new fall project

Motus O dance theatre, which received rave reviews for its innovative adaptation of A Midsummer Night's Dream in February, will start work on a new, production entitled Variations in Love this fall.

The latest work will comprise several new short pieces on the endlessly fascinating topic of love, and will debut at Markham Theatre on Jan. 28, 2005 along with Motus O's Petrouchka, a witty and touching work performed to the original score by Igor Stravinsky. The Stouffville-based company will also perform at Markham Theatre's 20th Anniversary Gala, along with Peter Appleyard and The Nylons.

Gala performances take place Oct. 14 and 15. For information call the theatre 7at 905-305-7469.

The Puck stops here. James Croker's irrepressible Puck provided one of many highlights in Motus O's fine interpretation of A Midsummer Night's Dream. The Stouffville-based dance theatre will be among the featured performers at Markham Theatre's 20th Anniversary Gala, which takes place Jan. 28, 2005.
