WORK OF THE TRUSTEES. The board of education for 1901 had its final meeting last evening. It is a pity that the law respecting the school boards was not amended with the municipal law respecting the terms of the city council so that the period and business of these two bodies might run more concurrently.

The trustees can claim, fairly well, credit for the exercise of great care in the administration of their affairs. If any elector has doubt about the spirit of economy which prevails he has only to visit the board during its sessions, or some of the committees as they meet to consider ways and means.

WHAT LIBERALS HAVE DONE. The people are so well satisfied with liberal rule that they do not, generally, ask for details. Liberals hear occasionally from their opponents, and they hear it said that the government is very extravagant. Is it?

There is a racial war on in Montreal, Le Journal, on behalf of the French, refuses to permit Ald. Ames, an Englishman, to become the leader of the council. Le Journal is conservative, and is at its congenial task of stirring up strife.

There is a school election tangle in Toronto, somewhat analogous to that which our friend, Mr. Sears, has projected in Kingston. The lawyers have taken hold of the case, and in time the electors may if they listen hear something drop.

The opposition in the legislature is inclined to find fault with the government because it does not present a prohibition measure. But the opposition is not at all disposed to take a stand upon the question. Mr. Whitney, for the present, is on the fence.

The constant repetition of the statement that there was a hopeless division in the reform ranks prior to the convention, cannot be permitted to go without another contradiction. The atmosphere prior to the ward meetings was absolutely lifeless, and these meetings were the quietest on record; not an angry word being spoken. It was one of the best natured struggles for place on record, and reflections should not cast on either the candidates or the liberals.

A CALL FOR GRATITUDE. The electors in the contest for the commons which is now in progress must remember that of greater importance than the endorsement of a candidate is the endorsement of the policy which he represents.

The liberal government at Ottawa is entitled to the thanks and gratitude of the people. It may not be able to make times good—although when the conservatives were in power they claimed with Providence a share in this responsibility—but it may help on this condition towards good times.

At five o'clock this morning Trusdale, who had little clinker boat and went out on the river to bag some ducks. He went directly out from Port Day, and his chase after the feathered game led him a long distance from the shore. Port Day is but a very short distance above the danger line, and only the boldest rivermen can venture out in the water at that point.

The picture is a dark one, but it is not overdrawn. The darkest pages in Canada's history were recorded during the closing years of the conservative regime.

EDITORIAL VIEWS. "After Sir John Macdonald the deluge," said a Kingston conservative at a certain party caucus. His was a prophetic utterance, and for making it he seems to have been sent into retirement.

The local government may support a prohibition measure with a referendum. Which means that an act, if passed, will not become law unless the people, by a direct and very emphatic vote, declare in favor of it.

The late Sir John Macdonald said, in one of his speeches, that when he had passed away his spirit would look down upon his followers, and make a note of what they were doing. How pained he must have been on many an occasion!

A MIRACULOUS ESCAPE. CAME NEAR BEING SWEEPED OVER NIAGARA FALLS.

John Flannigan, of Kingston, Assisted in Rescuing Fred Trusdale, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., From a Terrible Fate—Was Near to The Fearful Brink.

John Flannigan, a former Kingstonian, now residing at Niagara Falls, N. Y., returned to that place on Saturday last after visiting his relatives in this city for a short time. On the Monday following his return he assisted in rescuing a man who was being swept down the river by the swift current, and who came very near plunging over the falls.

The ice floes were running unusually thick, but Trusdale thought he could avoid them. He had bagged several ducks and was about to set out for shore when a tremendous ice floe came along and surrounded his little boat. Trusdale worked with his oars and tugged and pulled to free himself, but to no avail.

He renewed his efforts and pulled and tugged with the strength of a desperate man fighting against almost certain death. But it was of no avail. He was locked securely in the ice floe, and the only chance of getting loose seemed to be by the plunge over the falls to certain death.

By their united strength, Holloran, Downey and Flannigan succeeded in pulling Trusdale over the ice to shore. He dropped his arms in an unconscious condition.

The deficit in the public school funds is caused by the change made in Victoria school's ventilation system, costing $700, and the putting in of two assistant kindergarten teachers and a writing teacher. The deficit and the increase in teachers' salaries this year ($450) will necessitate asking the city council for $1,000 more than last year.

Bath Breeses. Bath, Jan. 9.—The election is over at last, and our council for 1902 is: Reeve, Dr. N. S. Northmore; councillors, John Forrester, R. R. Finkle, Silas Burley and George A. Warman. The ice has taken at last and the island is taken come over quite readily now.

Killed At Sacket's Harbour. Odenburg, N. Y., Jan. 10.—Ernest Danbar, an employee in Fitzgerald's coal shed at Sacket's Harbour, was instantly killed yesterday. He was working in the building, when a partition gave way, burying him beneath the coal. He was twenty-five years of age, and unmarried.

The men's meeting at the Y.M.C.A. building on Sunday afternoon will be addressed by Rev. E. Russell, lately pastor of Union street Baptist church. Lord Strathcona has fully recovered and resumed his official duties. Do not miss the great sale of underwear at Prevost's.

A SWAGGERING PHARISEE.

The Offensive Speech Of Chancellor Von Bulow.

London, Jan. 9.—A rebuke, administered to Mr. Chamberlain, the British colonial secretary, by chancellor Von Bulow, yesterday, as a result of the former's reference in his speech at Edinburgh, October 25th last, at the banquet of the German army with greatly increased bitterness of the Anglo-German discord.

The St. James Gazette concludes, with expressing the belief that the "pharisaical superiority of the German press is profoundly distasteful to the kaiser, who is manfully striving to stem the torrent which is bearing his empire towards the Niagara of disaster, and war." "That there is a menace which holds her armed to the teeth in sleepless vigilance, and when the expected catastrophe in south-western Europe leaves her almost motionless, the upper and nether millstones, she may bitterly regret the loss of the goodwill of this country, which she is now flinging away with both hands."

What The Count Said. Berlin, Jan. 9.—In the reichstag yesterday, after count Von Stollberg-Wernike had denounced recent references of the British colonial secretary to the German army, count Von Bulow made a speech. He said: "The last speaker alluded to a reference of an English minister, recently made to the German army's conduct in the Franco-German war. Should he, however, be getting dangerous examples from abroad it is advisable that he should proceed with caution as otherwise he may incur the risk of not only being misunderstood, but also of hurting foreign feelings, even though, as an ally ready to assume, there was, in the case of the present instance, no intention of so doing."

Cologne, Jan. 10.—Commenting on chancellor Von Bulow's severe criticism of Joseph Chamberlain's recent reference to the German army, the Cologne Gazette says that while the chancellor's day of reckoning with the British colonial secretary came a little later, the speech was distinguished by its clearness, and is making an impression. It was modeled after the drastic style of utterance which Mr. Chamberlain affects. The paper says the incident ought now to be regarded as closed by both sides, owing to the importance of preserving good relations between Germany and Great Britain.

SOMETHING NEW. A Wave Of Prosperity Has Struck The Limestone City. "Anything new to-day," asked the reporter.

Yes," replied a member of a local firm of tinmiths and plumbers, "it is something new for Kingston firms to be advertising for tinmiths and plumbers at this season of the year. It is the first time within my recollection, which extends over many years, that Kingston firms in our line have been so busy. It is the usual custom for us at this season of the year to discharge our tinmiths and plumbers, a few men being left to do all the work on hand. But a wave of prosperity is sweeping over the old limestone city, and instead of discharging we are taking on men, and cannot obtain a sufficient number for our needs. What is true of ourselves is true of other city firms. The past couple of years have been the most prosperous that Kingston workmen have ever experienced, and unless there is a change, which I do not foresee, the wave of prosperity will continue to roll money into the pockets of workmen and tradesmen. That's the only thing new I know of to-day."

Headed The Poll. Cusheadall, Jan. 8.—School No. 9 re-opened on Monday in charge of Miss Volume, Kingston. Mrs. Gussie Dempster, Gananoque, is the guest of Miss Walter Woods, jr., have joined court Stanley, No. 199, C.O.F. John McFarlane, Cusheadall, who ran for councillor of Pittsburg township, headed the poll.

Coming To Kingston. Verona, Jan. 9.—Lyons Lamson goes shortly to assume a position in the Kingston knitting mill. Mrs. J. L. Percy gave a very nice afternoon tea to several village friends recently. Howard Abrams called here to-day. Mr. Abrams was a former hotel-keeper here. Miss Laura Grant has gone to Harrowsmith on a visit.

For a Boys' Library. Mrs. George W. Bayson, wife of the judge of the penitentiaries for Canada, has made a step in the direction of installing a boys' library at the local Y.M.C.A., having presented the association with a handsome large volume. It is a work the mothers of the city would do well to assist in. Good literature has a great influence upon the minds of the young. The war office had drafted that the five nurses recommended for South Africa, go by way of England.
