JOHN WESLEY DIED POOR

Strong Drink. It is more than half a century since the eloquent voice of the late John Bright was raised against the evil from which the country suffers by the traffic of strong drink. In one of his earliest speeches he said: "What is the greatest obstacle to the diffusion of education among the people? It is people of this country? Their love of strong drink. How many thousands of innocent children are deprived of instruction and reared in contact with vice and every debasing influence through the influence of their parents? What chiefly prevents the good which the general distribution of the holy scriptures is calculated to produce? The drunken habits of the people. Look into the parishes, and you may see loads of bibles, and ask who brought them there. The answer will probably be a wretched woman reduced to extreme want by her husband's intemperance."

THE BATTLE SONG OF MISSIONS. By Laura M. Laffan. Our eyes have seen the glory of the break-out of the day; our hearts have heard the battle-note that came from far away. We saw the light of heaven's heights, in burning words they say, "Repent, repent the way."

TURNED ROSE ON HERSELF. Cleveland Plain Dealer. "That Miss Kennant is a nevy girl." "How so?" "She is in the hosiery department on the fourth floor of Sample's store. And when the fire broke out there the other day what do you suppose she did?" "Give it up?" "She actually insisted on getting on the hosiery department of stockings in the stock before she would attempt to climb down the fire escape."

PURCHASED THE PROPERTY. Margaret Herald. The Ohio gold and arsenic mining company, who have had the Parcoe property at Deloro under option, and who have been doing development work for the past few months, completed the purchase of the property last week and paid over the purchase money. Manager Hungeford left to attend a meeting of the board of directors of the company and the Atlas arsenic company are completing purchases of other properties in the district.

A Pointed Reproof. A Scotch lazzet, well improved when, seated by a lady fully aware of her own plain looks, having bowed to his hostess in giving the toast, "Honest men and honest women," she replied, raising her own glass: "We never both drink that toast, since it refers to neither of us."

DEAFNESS CURED.

Specialised Treatment For Deafness. In the "Journal for the Deaf," we find a complete description of a special treatment together with upwards of 200 recently cured cases, that will be absorbing interest to those who have any difficulty with the ears. An instance of a cure in the most obstinate case is the following: The Rev. Mr. Hoel, of Dartmouth Park, London, had for the last thirty years suffered from deafness, accompanied with most intolerable noises in the head and a tinnitus which gradually interfered with the performance of his religious duties, and which, besides, caused him considerable annoyances in all social intercourse. On different occasions, Mr. Hoel had attended special clinics, in the hope of getting rid of this troublesome infirmity, but with little or no result, and he had, therefore, with some sense of logic, come to the conclusion that his case was hopeless, which, being unobtainable of remedy, must of necessity be endured in the best possible manner. But hope can never be entirely eradicated from the human heart, and having some time ago heard repeatedly of the extraordinary results obtained by deaf people from the Drouot treatment, he decided to try once more and do so accompanied by Dr. Stevenson, who, considering the old standing of the disease and the rapidity of the cure, this case stands as quite exceptional. The majority of the cases reported by the Drouot Institute, taking on an average from thirty to fifty days' treatment, but it is by no means unique. We find, indeed, in the "Journal for the Deaf," several most interesting reports of cures of long standing, in which the cure had been effected in a remarkably short time. Among the features of the Drouot treatment which especially interest any person suffering from deafness, ear disease, and throat and nose affections, is the admirable system by which one can receive advice and use the treatment successfully without leaving home. For all information, write to the secretary of the Drouot Institute, 72, Regent's Park Road, London, England, who will answer such communications absolutely free of charge. A copy of the "Journal for the Deaf" can also be had gratis, and is accompanied by a Pathological Report Form, which enables any patient to submit his or her case so clearly that the consulting physician can send accurate information of the treatment necessary to effect a cure.

REV. DR. STEVENSON. Receives a Call From Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church. New York, Jan. 16.—A call to the pastorate of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, to the Rev. Dr. Ross Stevenson, professor of ecclesiastical history in the McCormick theological seminary of Chicago, was unanimously adopted at a meeting of the congregation. He is offered a regular salary of $10,000, the use of the parsonage, and an assistant pastor. The friends of the church will, in a manner not indicated, see that Dr. Stevenson, receives $2,000 more each year than the late Dr. Purves.

Superstition. Kingship has been king to superstition about the year of England was superstitions about dates, and there were remarkable coincidences in his life with certain dates of the calendar. The day of the month on which he was born was strictly observed, for with the days of birth and marriage of his wife and some of his children and their wives. But James was an old fool who made love to young Buckingham, who stole his jewels and robbed him of his jewels. Napoleon was superstitious about the way he put on his stockings. Frederick the Great, and the Great Peter of Russia, were superstitious about dozens of things. Marlborough, both as Jack Churchill and the duke, was superstitious as well as a thief and a traitor. Nearly all the Stuarts were superstitious, and double Henry was superstitious. Henry of Navarre was superstitious, but that never kept him from a thousand infidelities and adulteries. All the children of Catherine of Medici were scared to death by their superstitious, but they could be cheated and murdered just as well. Cromwell was a victim of superstition he kept it to himself.

A Detached Statesman. Member of Congress. Lord Salisbury has a reputation for being singularly detached from the world of men and affairs. It has been said that he has never spoken to Mr. Morley, it is also said that poor Mr. Foley, of the foreign office, has to submit to be called Mr. Fowler, or Mr. Fowler, or anything but Foley. Here is a story that has just come to me. It is typical of other credulous legends. Lord Salisbury, the bishop of London, and many others, so runs the story, happened to be in a room with the king. The king said to the bishop: "Do you know what Lord Salisbury has just said about you?" He pointed you out and asked, "Who is that young-looking clerk?" And then, to save embarrassment of the bishop, his majesty with that variable quality which is all his own, said: "But you need not mind that. I just showed him the latest photograph of myself, and looking at it some moments in silence, he said, sympathetically, 'Poor old Buller.'"

WHIG'S NEW YORK LETTER.

HAPPENINGS IN THE AMERICAN METROPOLIS. An Interesting Inquest—Against Sunday Opening of Saloons—Ping Pong Becomes Fashionable—Organ Grinders For New York. New York, Jan. 17.—The most interesting event of the week has been the inquest in connection with the terrible railroad disaster which occurred a week ago last Wednesday. There is no doubt that the hearts of those who lost relatives and friends in the fatal accident and the still critical condition of many of the victims is the cause for greatest anxiety. The inquest, which was held at the Metropolitan Police Court, and the determination to take some decisive action immediately grows daily, and it is estimated that over a million dollars in damage suits will be instituted against the New York Central railroad company. One immediate result of the accident has been to renew the communitarianism of riding in the last week of the year, and for the last week the railroads have been almost deserted, passengers preferring to crowd together in the front of the train, even at the expense of their comfort. Probably the most interesting activity is displayed by the women's Christian temperance union, which has been aroused by the declaration in favor of the opening of saloons on Sunday, made by Bishop Potter, Dr. Rainford, district attorney Jerome and other men prominent in metropolitan religious and political affairs. The union has sent out a circular letter asking that one Sunday be devoted to a discussion of Sunday opening to be followed by a poll of the congregation, the result of the vote to be sent to the member of the legislature of the district. Another matter with which the present legislature will probably have to deal is a new bill relative to pugilism. The measure is being framed by James F. Sullivan, secretary of the amateur athletic union, and will be presented to the legislature shortly. The bill is to allow amateur boxers to meet in limited-round bouts for medals and watches. Many of the most prominent of the state legislators Mr. Sullivan claims, favor such a bill, and on that account he is preparing one for presentation. Much has been written and said about Mrs. Sylvia Green, daughter of the eccentric and wealthy Mrs. Hetty, her beauty, accomplishments and finally successful entry into New York society, but little or no space has been given Miss Annie Leary, who has introduced into Gotham's exclusive circles Miss Green. Miss Leary has just received the title of countess from pope Leo XIII, and is the first woman of this country to be so honored. She has probably given more money to the Catholic church in America than any other individual benefactor, and it is for her philanthropies that his holiness has rewarded her so signally. Miss Leary is one of the most notable figures in New York's four hundred, and her New York home as well as her Newport villa has been the scene of some of the most brilliant entertainments ever given in this country. The friends of the Erie canal, it would seem, are doomed to disappointment for governor Odell's latest recommendations regarding canal legislation favor only the deepening of the canal to nine feet, the lengthening of the locks and the straightening of the canal, at a total approximate cost of $28,000,000, while these advocates have wanted a thousand dollar canal. There have been many conferences on the subject at Albany, and whatever bill is passed by the legislature, it will provide for a referendum to the people, for they decide whether or not the state will spend so much more money on the canal. Since "Ping Pong" was introduced at a house party given by William Vanderbilt, a short time ago, the game has become a craze in fashionable society. The amusement has been quite a fad in London for some time, so it is not strange that New Yorkers should take it up with such favor. The name Ping Pong probably comes from the sound the vellum-covered hand racket makes as it strikes the celluloid ball back in a return or "smash." One time ago the six-inch net on the dining-room table to the opponents' court. The game is really a table tennis and is the invention of one James Gibb, who started a craze game, which was first played out as rough balls, and the lids of cigar boxes as rackets, or battledores. If the thirty-four hand-organs and grinders, who are reported to be on their way to New York from Paris, because of the police raids in the French city on this kind of street music, have in stock some new tunes, they will seriously threaten the barrel organ trust, which, has its headquarters here. They would be especially welcome in the outskirts of New York. For the past two summers evenings in these semi-rural districts have been driven indoors by pleasant evenings by barrel organs that date back to the stone age of that industry. The organ grinders have made more money from people who paid them to go away than those whose cars were pleased with this sort of noise. They never even changed their route and might after night the same old tunes would disturb the same neighborhood. One of these organ-grinders explained that the territory was now so divided that there could be no rivalry. Perhaps the French organists are no better, and the fact that it is rumored in political circles that an aggressive campaign will be begun for the purpose of driving Richard Croker from his seat of power in the democratic party of this city. The campaign, it is understood, will be under the direction of his emissaries outside of Tammany hall, reinforced by his foes within the organization. Mr. Croker will leave for Europe about the middle of February according to present intentions. Already the departure has been postponed a number of times on the advice of friends, and it is said that when the Tammany chieftain does depart, his absence will be brief. New York physicians are wondering whether or not the fashionable women of Gotham are going to adopt another fad that is at present vogue in London. To enhance the symmetry of their figures in evening dress English society women are now imitating Elie Otora, the famous danseuse, in the practice of "limping her body" to make her best-groomed figure. In order to make sure that the effect thus created shall not be lost prematurely by expiration, their underwear and stays are of the thinnest made, which require a large amount of moisture. Needless to say, this is one of the thickest exponents of vanity woman has adopted in the pursuit of appearances, for it entails rheumatism, if not worse.
