O'Donahue will sever his connection with the Copper City commercial company, of Anaconda, Mont., with which house he has been connected for the past four and a half years, to enter the retail business in Omaha, Neb., in partnership with Thomas P. Redmond, who, since, 1895, has been with the Hennessy mercantile company, of Butte, Mont., as buyer of half price. silks, dress goods, linens, laces, flan-nels, ribbons, notions, etc. The O'-Donahue & Redmond company, which is to be the style of the new firm, will confine its operations to the sale of dry goods, millinery and children's | each. garments, and will have quarters in the new building of the W. R. Bennett company, corner of Sixteenth and Harney streets. The new store will have a frontage of 132 feet on Sixbeing entirely of glass and iron. I construction and equipment it will be ent a number of attractive features One of these will be a gallery in the rear of the first floor, for the accommodation of women and mothers with babies, with a competent maid in charge. On the third floor will be an up-to-date cafe. The many friends of both Mr. O'Donahue and Mr. Redmond will learn with interest of their entrance into the retail field as independent merchants, and the inauguration of their business will marked by a general wish for unlimit ed success among those who enjoy acquaintanceship with them. "This is not Mr. O'Donahue's first experience either as a dry goods re tailer or an Omaha business man. In 1882 he established a store in that city, which he sold out in 1890, In 1872, in partnership with his brother, he opened a store in Brockville, Ont. under the name O'Donahue Bros which enterprise was conducted succeasfully for nine years. "Thomas P. Redmond, Mr. O'Dona hue's partner, is a native of King ston, Ont., and served his apprenticeship in the dry goods trade with Walsh and Steacy, of that city. He went to Colorado in the early '90's and at H. Z. Saloman's store. Denver, he took charge of the silk and dress goods departments. In 1895 he was engaged by the Hennessy mer cantile company, of Butte, Mont., to buy for similar departments. from time to time had under his care the wash goods, linens, flannels, rib bons, silka, etc., departments. Redmond's rapid advancement sreaks volumes for his skill and enterprise and he may be looked upon as a valuable associate to the veteran with whom he has joined forces.

The Butte Miner also contains this flattering notice of Mr. Redmond's departure for Omeha: "Thomas P. Redmond Butte. For the past seven years he has successfully held the important position of manager and buyer for the silks, dress goods and domestic departments in Hennessy's big store. Now he courts success in a business venture of his own. In leaving Butte Mr. Redmond will carry with him the best wishes of his hosts of friends and he is universally popular. By his many courteous acts, enduring friendship and strict attention to all his duties.

The Anaconda Standard contains lengthy notice of a presentation to Mr. Redmond of a gold locket, set with diamonds, and containing this inscription : "Presented to T. P. Accompanying the locket was an artistically arranged booklet, con-taining the names of Mr. Redmond's former associates, together with the facts touching the presentation and giving a number of appropriate sket-
