Gold In Your Garment.

In many thousands of garments and attics women have gold stored away and not aware of it. It is not in coins, nuggets or bars that the gold is held, neither is it in bank notes or bonds; it is there in the form of cast off and faded clothing, garments and materials that can be turned into a gold value by the use of Diamond Dyes.

At a cost of ten cents you can recolor a dress, skirt, jacket, cape, blouse or waist, and make them as good and stylish as new ones purchased in a store. With one or two packages of Diamond Dyes you can give new life and beauty to your husband's overcoat or suit thrown aside perhaps for the rag gathewer. Your cotton and wool rag re-dyed with Diamond Dyes will make up handsome mats or rugs that will add to the comfort of your home. All the work and transformation suggested will give you results that have a gold value.

WHAT HE DID NOT SAY.

So it was at the last session of the legislature, when Mr. Ross was putting the grant to the school of mines through, that Mr. Whitney said something that was quite favourable to Queen's College. And it was something he could not help saying. He did not dare to oppose the proposition which the government advanced, however he may have felt about it, and he said so little that it cannot be recalled by the average reader, perhaps not by Mr. Whitney himself. The essence of his oration was an arraignment of the government because it had not done more for Toronto university. One thing the leader did not say at any time, in Toronto or any where else, last session or this, is the remark credited to him by his Kingston organ, namely, that in power he would do more for Queen's than Mr. Ross.

TALK OF COMPENSATION.

Mr. Haverson, of Toronto, protests against the prohibition measure because it contains no provision for the compensation of the liquor dealers. He points out that according to the evidence of the royal commission there is an investment of $70,000,000 in the liquor business, mostly in Ontario, "as the principal distilleries and all the large breweries are situated in this province." But these industries will not be closed by provincial prohibition. The trade of the other provinces will have to be supplied, and even the trade of Ontario under certain conditions. The man who wants liquor can still get it, in quantities, and pay a little more for it in the circumlocution which it must have before it can be delivered. The people who will suffer by prohibition, if it passes, will be those who are in the retail business, solely, the saloon men and the hotel keepers.

The Globe raises a point with them that may affect the question of compensation. It is that the hotelman has not an absolute right to the renewal of the license. That renewal may be refused in a particular case, or may be dropped in the general reduction of licenses which has been going on for years. "Between the passage of the Crooks act and last year," says the Globe, "the number of licenses was reduced from 4,703 to 2,621, although the province had largely increased," and there was no compensation so far as the people and the government were concerned. No, the compensation issue is not up at present, and remembering an old and very appropriate saying, it is time enough to deal with a difficulty when it has arisen.

THE BALLOT IS SECRET.

Rev. Mr. Johnston, of the Queen street Methodist church, Toronto, and once the pastor of the Queen Street Methodist church here, discussed prohibition on Sunday evening last. He agreed generally with the course of the government, though differing with its policy of holding the referendum on a date subsequent to the holding of the general election. What is the difference?

The object of the vote on October 14th, (which will be some time after the people have selected a new legislature), is to have it unaffected by any of the election complications, and to have it considered on its merits. The majority vote fixed by the government is not objected to by Mr. Johnston and other representatives of his church. They realize that a prohibition law, to be effective, has to be backed by a strong public sentiment, and such a sentiment cannot be expressed as indicated by a minority of the total voters. In a general election the issues before the people are many, and while they cannot overshadow prohibition they will absorb some of the thought that should go to it, and in consequence the ballot in connection with it may be very disappointing.

The Whig cannot understand, as Mr. Johnston on Sunday contended, how the prohibition plebiscite, separately, would practically be abandoning the secrecy of the ballot. "For fear of losing their positions," he said, "men who would go to the polls and vote for prohibition in a general election would stay away altogether." How can men's intentions be understood in one case any more than in the other? The ballot in any case is absolutely secret, and except the corrupt ones, who do not care how they vote, or whom they support, the electors generally cast their ballots unrestrainedly and according to their desires. There is no intimidation at the polls. There was none when the plebiscite was taken on a former occasion, apart from a general election, and there will not be any intimidation now.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. Tarte is not going to Spencerwood, at Quebec, or into private life. La Patrie makes that positive claim.

Hon. E. J. Flynn is still leader of the opposition in Quebec. The conservative party (of five) has not yet disposed him.

The Roosevelt idea is that public officials hereafter should regard their appointments as permanent pending their good behaviour. But Mr. Roosevelt will not reign forever, and the spoils system has its admirers.

A hypnotist in Burlington, Conn., wanted to bury himself alive for several days and the police would not let it be done. That's where they appeared a mistake. The voluntary disappearance, under the snows, of a few of these fakirs, would be a great relief to a long-suffering people.

The British Empire League is worrying over the expense of the last contingent and wants the Canadian government to pay them. Who is running this country, anyway? Has the government become so incapable, that every little cross-roads' club must undertake to give it advice?

The Spectator rises to remark that "the flop of La Progress simply amounts to nothing so far as the conservative party is concerned." Which means that the Spectator has not changed its attitude towards the French, and that they are now at liberty to go to the eternal bow-wow.

The boom continues in the United States—conditions generally are better than they were a year ago—and the Chicago Inter-Ocean remarks: "It is on the basis of confidence that the present great prosperity of the United States is resting. Nothing like it has blessed the American people in their history."

A contingent of Canadian troops is not required at the coronation of the king. On that occasion the military, however gorgeous they may look, will not be the centre of attraction. Besides Sir Wilfrid Laurier's personality will not be rendered more attractive by a military body-guard. He reached distinction without it, and does not need it now.

With the exemption of manufacturers' plants and the abolition of the personal tax, as suggested by the assessment commission, real estate would be loaded down with the municipal burdens. The tax rate in Kingston was high enough last year, but it is going up, up, up, if all the present demands upon the council are to be provided for.

John Murray Clark.

A very highly respected resident and pioneer, in the person of John Murray Clark, Esq., passed peacefully away, at the advanced age of eighty-seven years, being aged in the township of Ernestown, September 5th, 1815. He enjoyed perfect health until within two months previous to his demise. He was of U.E. loyalist descent and was the last of twelve brothers, all living the allotted age save Edward, who died in youth. Singular to relate he died on the farm on which he was born, spending the greater period of life as an agriculturalist, excepting a few years of his early career he lived in Kingston, acting in the interests of one of the leading papers. He was married to Sarah E., daughter of Donald Fraser, having been married fifty-six years, and in October, 1896 they held their golden wedding. To them were born five children, two of whom are dead, Elizabeth A., married to W. H. Hodge, St. Catharines; Alana, married to L. R. Badgley, architect, of Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. N. B. Hamm, Bath, Edgerton M., on the household. Mr. Clark was a member of the Methodist church, being a steward for over forty years. In politics he was a staunch conservative, but very liberal in his views.

A New By-Law Wanted.

City solicitor McIntyre has drawn the attention of the council to an Ontario statute entitled "an act to regulate the means of egress from public buildings," and its application to the Grand opera house. The council may pass a by-law to regulate the size and number of doors of public buildings. So far the city has not availed itself of this act to establish the necessary by-law, and the council may be held blameable should an accident occur at the opera house.

With reference to this communication mayor Shaw informed the council that the police commissioners had inspected the opera house and found the exits satisfactory, with the exception of the two flights of stairs leading to the galleries. The attention of the city solicitor was drawn to these defects under the provisions of the Ontario act.

Quite A Success.

Brockville has been just one year the owner of its lighting plant. After paying all running expenses, interest and sinking fund for the current year it is just $5,000 ahead and has to enlarge the plant to meet the growing demand for light. Municipal ownership of other necessities besides water pays.

TORONTO HAS MIRACLE.

Man Gets Up And Walks Under Zionist Prayers.

Toronto, Feb. 18.—Toronto has a Dorsic miracle. John Easton, whose back has been broken for six years, and whose little wagon, with its inscription telling of his troubles with the Bramford street car company, is a familiar figure on the streets, had his plaster cast seen in two on Saturday night by the local elders, and slowly got up and clambered out of his wagon. The Zionites have been laboring with Easton for some time. Dr. Dowse, in Chicago, was induced to add a special prayer on those of the seventy believers in Toronto, and this, it is claimed, worked the miracle. There is intense excitement among the believers and their friends. Easton can walk freely and is in good, general health.

THE SUBWAY MATTER.

City And County Council To Press Its Construction.

At last night's meeting of the city council the members were asked upon by a deputation of the county council, consisting of warden Spoor, councillors Campbell, Toner and Fair, with reference to the proposed subway under the Grand Trunk tracks at Montreal street crossing.

Warden Spoor congratulated the mayor on his election; he was sure wise legislation would result from the mayor's experience and counsel. The speaker had not gone deeply into the subway matter, but would ask Mr. Fair and Mr. Toner to speak; they had looked carefully into the question, and were versed in all its details.

Councillors Fair pointed out the benefits that would flow to both city and county from the establishment of the subway in question. Besides providing safety to human life, it would be of great benefit to the business of the city, inasmuch as it would permit of farmers, their wives and families coming into the city center, the danger at the Grand Trunk crossing being removed. He urged that a deputation be appointed by the city council to act in conjunction with the county council. Councillor Fair made a strong and eloquent plea that nothing should be left undone towards carrying to a successful issue the matter in question.

Councillor Toner supported the arguments of his colleague, and added that great danger ensued at the crossing each winter because of the five tracks being swept clear, making it most difficult for heavy loads to be drawn across. There are also long trains obstructing the crossing half an hour at a time. The railroad company had already made preparation to build a subway.

While alderman Craig was in sympathy with the movement, and pointed out that two years ago a deputation from the county and city had waited upon the minister of railways with reference to the subway. The minister asked certain questions which the deputation was unable to answer. He hoped that this year if a deputation waited upon the government all data connected with the question would be available. He admitted that the want of a subway was a serious detriment to business.

While alderman Craig was in sympathy with the scheme, he considered it one in which the county should take the initiative. If this were done the city would give the county all the support possible.

Alderman McLeod also admitted that the question of having a subway built at the certain questions which the city would give the county all the support possible.

Alderman King asked if the Grand Trunk railway company had been asked to construct the subway and received an affirmative reply from alderman Farrell; the company had refused to do so as requested.

Alderman Knapp took the ground that the member of the city ought to be able to present the city's case in a satisfactory manner, and thus save the expense of the deputation. As regards trains blocking the highway, this was illegal and should not be permitted.

Alderman Tait Indignant. Alderman Tait was sorely grieved at last night's meeting of the council. When the report of the finance commission for payment of the $175 to the Lavie engine company, Montreal, was being considered, the Finance ward warrior wanted some information on the item, and was prepared to move an amendment. He was informed that the matter would be dealt with in the report of the fire and light committee, but when that report came before council it was found not to contain any reference to the matter.

Coal Famine In The West. Owing to the recent snow storms traffic from the coal fields of Pennsylvania is almost at a standstill, and consequently, Hamilton, Toronto, Peterboro, and other western points are suffering from a coal famine. These places have appealed to Montreal for help in order to keep their factories supplied. In Montreal, hard coal is plentiful, but coke is at a low ebb. On account of lack of soft fuel, the Hamilton sewage disposal works have been temporarily closed. Kingston has lots of hard coal, but is in need of more coke. It is understood that the locomotive works and Kingston foundry have suffered to some extent during the past few weeks, through the short supply of coke.

WHY REMAIN UNSIGHTLY AND DISFIGURED. Paine's Celery Compound Will Remove Every Trace of Poison From the Blood and Give You a Perfect and Healthy Circulation.

Are you troubled with eczema, salt rheum, eruptions, boils or running sores? The troubles mentioned are common, and arise from a debility of the nervous system which leaves the excretory organs so weak that they cannot remove the waste matter, and the noxious particles remain in the system carrying disease, instead of health to every tissue of the body.

For the various unsightly and horrible blood and skin diseases, Paine's Celery Compound is the medicine recommended and endorsed by our ablest medical practitioners. Its vitalizing, purifying effect upon the blood is unequalled by any other medicine.

D. McMahon, Peterborough, Ont., writes about his wonderful cure as follows: "I have great pleasure in testifying for the value of Paine's Celery Compound has caused a remarkable change in my condition. I was troubled with a very bad type of eczema on my face and in patches over my body for four years. I was under treatment of three doctors at different periods, and have also tried many remedies, but all proved useless. At last I bought a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, and put in a bottle of Potassium as recommended on the label. The one bottle did me so much good that I bought five bottles more, and now am happy to say that I am perfectly cured and completely free from the troublesome disease."
